

Door Closed On Legislative Pay Increases

BOGO Follows
Lucey Call for
State Austerity

MADISON (AP) — A proposal to increase salaries of Wisconsin legislators by 10 per cent reached the end of the line Tuesday on a 4-3 vote by the Board on Government Operations.

The action closed the door on a motion that had been recommended by the Legislative Compensation Council, the director of the Bureau of Personnel and the state Personnel Board.

The council had been created by the legislature to examine the feasibility of pay hikes. Wisconsin ranks 10th in the nation in legislative salaries.

If the proposal had succeeded, 117 of 133 lawmakers would have drawn $9,790 a year as opposed to the $8,900 they now receive, effective Jan. 1.

BOGO's vote, by five Republicans and two Democrats, displayed a non-partisan flair that could lend strength to Democratic Gov.-elect Patrick J. Lucey's recent appeal for austerity in state spending.

GOP Votes

All four votes in opposition were cast by Republicans. They are Sens. Walter Hollander of Rosendale and William Draheim of Neenah, and Reps. Byron Wackett, Watertown, and John Shabaz, New Berlin.

Favoring the raise were Democratic Sen. Martin Schreiber of Milwaukee, the lieutenant governor-elect; Rep. Richard Pabst, D-Milwaukee, and Rep. Russell Olson, R-Kenosha.

Shabaz, speaking of a "responsibility factor in line with the additional austerity" said: "This is the first blow we can strike for it. We have to set the example."

Hollander stressed that current salaries "are adequate," and challenged: "If any member does more work than I do, step forward."

Wackett said he would "vote on no raises for anyone until we put the teachers' back in the class room."

He has been a strong critic of the practice of state university professors' devoting excessive time to research rather than instruction.

Schreiber explained his vote there are indications Wisconsin will "definitely be moving toward annual sessions" that would merit more work and more pay.

Although the BOGO meeting was open to the public, only six persons stepped forward to express views.

Two legislators who shared opposition to the pay increase were Reps. Edward Nager, D-Madison, and Kenneth Merkel, R-Brookfield.

Opposing Stands

Merkel and Nager have taken opposing stands on many previous matters of state spending. Nager said his basic disagreement to pay boosts "rests on the nature of the approach."

He called it a "sloughing off of legislative responsibility" and repeated his earlier proposal of submitting a bill to the next session to "repeal the Legislative Compensation Council."

Nager and Merkel reached further agreement that the present economic situation is not consonant with a pay increase.

Referring to a remark by Shabaz that "You are saving us about 30 cents a year per person," Nager said: "It's not the question of how much; it's the principle this time."

Relating to the economic crisis, Merkel said: "Somewhere it's got to stop. It might as well stop here today. If we don't vote to put the stopper on ourselves, how can we put the stopper on anybody else?"

Merkel also questioned BOGO's power and pointed out that "three lame ducks" were voting on the issue.

He meant Schreiber, who will become lieutenant governor in January, and Draheim and Olson, who were defeated for reelection Nov. 3.

Goodwill Finds Dead Baby

NEENAH — The frozen body of a newborn baby was found this morning in a plastic garbage bag at the Fox Valley division headquarters of Goodwill Industries, 120 N. Lake St.

An autopsy will be performed today to determine the cause of death of the infant girl.

The unidentified infant may have been picked up during collections Monday in Green Bay or Tuesday in Manitowoc, according to Vernon Johnson, production manager at the Goodwill firm.

Police said they will talk to Goodwill truck drivers who made pickups in those two cities in an attempt to narrow their search for the mother.

Police said late this morning that they had no leads. Johnson said the baby probably was deposited in an outside collection box. However, he did not rule out the possibility that it could have been picked up during house collections. Police hope to be able to answer that question after talking to the truck drivers.

Johnson said a Goodwill client, whom he declined to identify, found the body while unloading a trailer about 9:30 a.m. Police said the body was inside a green garbage bag, which was in a cardboard box.

According to Johnson, the client opened the bag because it appeared to be heavier than the other articles, which primarily consisted of clothing.

Johnson said the truck driver who collected the items that included the body would have had no reason to be suspicious. He explained that the truck drivers unload into big trailers parked behind the Neenah Goodwill building. Employees later unload the trailers and sort the merchandise. He said the trailers are kept locked, all but ruling out the possibility that someone put the infant directly into the trailer.

Capt. Vern Wollerman of the Neenah Police Department estimated the baby's weight at seven or eight pounds. Police could not immediately determine if the baby was dead when it was left for collection. The body was taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital for examination.

Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller is assisting in the investigation.

State Plans 100 Orders On Pollution

GREEN BAY (AP) — Gov.-elect Patrick J. Lucey was told today the state of Wisconsin expects to initiate nearly 100 air, water and noise pollution abatement orders in the next two years.

resources budget hearing conducted by Lucey on the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay campus.

Warren explained to Lucey the problems his Justice Department has encountered in attempting to prosecute pollution abatement orders.

"Everybody's for pollution abatement until you start to breathe down their particular neck," Warren said.

"We have five common law nuisance cases pending in circuit court and on appeal to the Supreme Court," the attorney general said. "We also are involved in a federal court case seeking to give states the right to set rigid radiation pollution standards."

Thomas Frangos, administrator of the environmental protection division, told Lucey his agency needs $800,000 in the next biennium—more than quadruple its present budget for combating air pollution.

During the next biennium, Frangos said, all areas of Wisconsin will be incorporated into air pollution control regions. He said the additional funds are needed to obtain necessary personnel and equipment to monitor air pollution at various points throughout Wisconsin.

Air quality standards for two pollutants, particulate matter and sulfur oxides, have been established in the southeastern Wisconsin air quality control region, Frangos said.

He told Lucey that standards for three automobile related pollutants—carbon monoxide, photochemical oxidants, and hydrocarbon—will be approved soon.

Frangos appeared on an air pollution control panel which included Arthur Padruft, chairman of the Public Service Commission, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren, and air pollution experts. In response to a question from Lucey, Padruft said the Public Service Commission is encouraging utilities to include pollution control facilities in their operations.

Lucey was told Tuesday by an ecologist that the Department of Natural Resources hasn't been showing adequate management of Wisconsin resources.

Upturn Awaited

Production in 4th Month of Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — With industrial production taking a fourth straight monthly slide, signs of a hoped-for economic upturn continue to elude the Nixon administration.

The six-tenths of one per cent decline in the key economic indicator in November came despite settlement of the United Auto Workers' strike against General Motors.

While the drop was not as severe as October's decline during the height of the strike, it still reflected a lag in the economy. The Federal Reserve Board

Tuesday attributed most of the drop to a slack of output in business and defense equipment and industrial materials.

But the board offered one hopeful note.

Auto assemblies, which fell sharply during the strike, maintained a steady pace in November and the board said: "with the settlement of the strike, auto production is expected to rise sharply in December."

Meanwhile, Paul W. McCracken, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, was quoted as giving Republican senators Tuesday a "moderately optimistic" view of the economy in 1971.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said McCracken predicted a mild decrease in unemployment in 1971, "but not of a startling nature." In November, employment stood at 5.8 per cent of the work force, highest in 7½ years.

In other news of the economy, the government reported the nation's economy passed the $1 trillion mark Tuesday.

President Nixon celebrated the event by unveiling a new Gross National Product clock, an electronic device that ticks off the nation's output in goods and services at the rate of $2,000 per second.

Nixon said the nation would not be able to propose government health, education and welfare programs without such "an enormously productive economy."

The GNP clock, which ticks off inflation as well as growth in the economy, cost about $6,000, Commerce Department officials said.

Jan. 21 Opening Set For 92nd Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 92nd Congress will meet Jan. 21 under a bill passed by the House. The Senate is expected to agree to the date.

Under current law, the newly-elected Congress would open its session Jan. 3 unless the outgoing Congress sets another date.

Now There's a Home for the Holidays

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Because three policemen found eviction proceedings not in keeping with the Christmas spirit, two families in Miami and an elderly couple in New York City have a place to stay today.

Veteran Miami police sergeant William Kimbro donated the $36 nest egg he'd saved for Christmas liquor to pay for motel rooms for two families, including four children, he helped evict.

Two Manhattan patrolmen, moved by the plight of Sam Labeiko, 85, and his wife Lizi, 80, held up their eviction on a technical point and then passed the hat to help raise the overdue rent money.

The Labeikos, who came to this country from Russia shortly after the turn of the century, had lived in their Lower East Side apartment for 33 years.

They were being evicted because they owed the landlord $155. The landlord had raised the rent from $36.80 to $46.80 a month and their Social Security money and Sam's pension simply wouldn't stretch that far.

Patrolman Thomas Finerman, 20, and his partner, Bob Borowski, 29, were assigned to stand by while a marshal evicted the couple. They decided to help.

First they demanded a look at the marshal's identity card which it turned out had expired. Then they noticed the eviction papers identified Sam as "John."

They sent the marshal packing, returned to their station house and got a donation of $1 from each of the 53 policemen on duty.

Back at the apartment, Sam had enough to make up the difference.

"We all felt," said Finerman afterward, "these were elderly people who had worked all their lives without taking handouts, and that they deserved a better break than they were getting."

In Miami Sgt. Kimbro said

he gave up his money to help the families because "I'm black, I like kids and it won't hurt me to stay sober over Christmas."

The two families were evicted from an apartment building Tuesday as the result of a rent strike by Negro tenants.

Kimbro took Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Small to a motel and guaranteed payment of $36 for two night's lodging.

"I'm no good Samaritan or humanitarian," Kimbro said. "I'm a cop. But I like kids and I didn't want to see those kids hauled around because of this rent strike. They could have been hurt."

"That was money I had to buy my Christmas whisky with."

"I don't expect the money back," Kimbro said. "I told those people I couldn't afford to pay for more than two days. Any of the guys would have done it if they had the money in their pockets."

Hickel Blames Nixon Aides for Discord

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel says presidential staff members came between him and President Nixon, and created an "isolation of thought" at the White House.

Staff members meddled in department affairs, Hickel said, and may have tried to keep him away from the President because they feared he could persuade Nixon in favor of programs they opposed.

Hickel, fired by the President Nov. 25 after two stormy years in the Cabinet, told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview: "There is a direction going in the White House, at the staff level, that I disagree with."

Nixon Not Criticized

He carefully avoided any criticism of President Nixon, however.

In fact, said Hickel, whenever he did see the President he found him receptive, ready to "light up" at a good idea.

Hickel, heading back to Alaska today—"to spend Christmas with friends, to rest, to think"—was vague on his future, but indicated he will try to bring a positive, hopeful attitude to the public—unlike the "negative" political campaign he said the Republican party waged this fall.

To the youth of America, whom he saw as disappointed at his dismissal, Hickel said: "Don't give up."

Here are excerpts from the interview:

Q—Gov. Hickel, how do you feel now about the hectic two years that ended with a personal dismissal by the President?

A—Men sometimes think to themselves, "If I ever get there, this is what I'll do," but so often when they get there, they really lost the reason why they wanted to get there. I never lost that reason. I made up my mind I would change certain things. This is what I did.

No Apologies

And that's why I feel so free as I leave, because I have nothing to apologize for . . .

Q—After you were fired, you wondered out loud why the President had hired you in the first place; did he give you any idea, in the beginning, what he wanted you to do?

A—No, not at that time. His statement when he introduced me was that he wanted me to bring vision and a new approach to Interior, and that's exactly what I was trying to do.

I was carrying out what I thought was not only my viewpoint but that of the administration, and at no time was I ever criticized by the President for those many controversial actions, or for any direction I took on pollution and the environment.

Good Job

Q—You mean while you were secretary, the President was occasionally saying: "You're doing a good job?"

A—Yes. Especially on environment and pollution matters.

Q—Then how do you account for the strained relationship that developed between you and the White House?

A—Any man in the White House with those burdensome responsibilities can only react in the way the input gets to him.

Any reaction I had from the President was always on a positive, imaginative basis for solving problems. He'd light up when I'd talk to him about program proposals, like my 20-year financing plan for municipal waste-treatment construction.

But that's one of the programs I lost, and I think I lost it because I never talked to the President directly again about it. I think it was lost at the staff level.

Getting In

Q—But you seemed to have trouble getting to the President. You once said if you could have talked with him or his aide, John Ehrlichman, for five minutes, you would not have had to write your famous May 6 letter.

A—I had never pushed as hard as I did that day. But it was more an isolation of thought than an isolation of individuals. It was really an attitude. I think men who try too hard for a job have to compromise too many things. I came totally free. I came to do a job, not to get a job; to do a job for 200 million Americans . . .

If you capture that intent, you've got Wally Hickel's approach to the problems, and you've got his problems with the administration . . .

Q—That sounds like the popular notion of a little "in-group" isolating the President and controlling his "input." Is that your view?

Staff Level

A—I believe there is a direction going in the White House, at the staff level, that I disagree with . . .

I think many members of the White House staff got involved in departmental things far beyond necessity. I think they wanted to be helpful; it doesn't necessarily make them bad men. But if the system gets going in the wrong direction, it makes it impossible to solve some of the enormous problems we're faced with.

Q—Isn't that up to the President himself? He can get whatever input he asks for.

A—When I had an opportunity to talk with him, I found him so willing to listen . . . It might be that on a one-to-one basis I appeared too effective a salesman for a program that maybe some lesser member of government didn't like.

Political Campaign

Q—You have also disagreed with the tactics of the 1970 Republican political campaign. How do you assess its effects?

A—We had so many positive, good things to talk about that there just wasn't any reason to run a negative campaign . . . It was the negative attitude, more than anything, that I thought was not acceptable to the American people.

Q—What do you think America's youth will think about the chances of working within the

Home for Christmas

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — Concern of a retired Army captain and a banker's wife have sparked a movement that will bring eight—maybe 10—Johnson County servicemen home from Vietnam for Christmas.

One of the eight, Fred Clark, has a 2-week-old son he has never seen.

The ex-captain, Harry Welch, heard Dec. 6 of the Army's plan to allow Christmas leave for servicemen who could wangle a furlough and could pay for a roundtrip flight. By commercial airline, that would be about $800.

"I was an enlisted man once, and I never saw that kind of money," Welch said. "So why don't we help these guys come home."

"This community could do a tremendous service and for my part I would have a far better Christmas knowing we have helped our area servicemen."

Welch took his idea to the Olathe Daily News Dec. 7, and a campaign for donations was launched.

Nine Names

The newspaper asked for names of servicemen eligible for the furlough. Nine names came in, then money started trickling in.

Nine miles away in Gardner, Mrs. Don Lehman, mother of five and wife of a banker, got the same idea last Tuesday to help Thomas M. Hutton of Gardner to come home.

Mrs. Lehman, in one day, collected more than $800 for Hutton.

The Olathe people heard about that, and money started pouring in. By Monday more than $3,000 had been given and campaign organizers hoped to get $900 more this week.

Helping Welch manage the drive are C. Dennis Anderson, Chamber of Commerce manager, Bob Milligan, American Legion official, and Dick Bus-

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet That Needs No Prescription Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

Welfare Changes Recommended By Task Force

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The State Task Force on Welfare Payments, winding up nine months of study, has recommended creation of an ad hoc committee to replace the present state Board of Health and Social Services.

State Sen. Raymond C. Johnson, R-Eau Claire, chairman of the task force, said the board had a lot of expertise in certain fields but was not close to the welfare problem and lacked necessary experience in that field.

The committee would be assigned to develop a state welfare plan for submission to the federal government in seeking funds, develop a standard of need of welfare recipients, review welfare directives of the state and stream line the administration of welfare.

The task force also recommended permitting public inspection of the breakdown of welfare grants, on condition the person checking sign his name unless he is a county supervisor.

In another action, the task force voted that Aid to Families of Dependent Children of unemployed fathers, a program dropped by the last legislature, be reinstated under certain conditions.

The group also proposed that the limit a welfare recipient may earn without his grant being reduced be raised from $30 to $60.

Obey Hits Doctors, Congress For Rising Medicare Fees

WASHINGTON — The monthly premiums on the voluntary portion of Medicare are expected to go up by 30 to 70 cents next year, Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., reported today.

Obey blamed doctors in part for raising their fees and Congress for failing to limit the amount doctors can collect under Medicare.

Obey referred to the Part B medical insurance that pays doctors' bills and other medical costs outside the hospital. He said 19.4 million elderly persons now pay a $5.30 monthly premium put in effect last July, compared with $4 when Medicare took effect in 1964.

"The Part B program has consistently failed to pay for itself, and one of the reasons is that the government failed to recognize how fast physicians' fees were rising," the Wausau congressman said in a weekly newsletter distributed to newspapers in his district.

He cited a news article reporting medical fees this year have risen at a six per cent rate, and that estimates say each year about one-third of U.S. doctors boost their fees by 20 to 25 per cent.

Limitations approved in the House Medicare bill last spring have been tied up in the Senate, Obey said.

He also disagreed with the argument that raising the insurance premium is less objectionable following the recent increase in Social Security benefits. "The government is simply putting money in one pocket and removing it from the other," he argued.

Canned Tuna Exceeds Limit For Mercury

Amount Not Enough To Endanger Health, FDA Decides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says Americans can keep on eating canned tuna although excess mercury has been found in more than one of every five cans sampled.

Should housewives continue to buy all the canned tuna they want and feed it to their families?

"Absolutely," said FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards. "This is not a health hazard."

Edwards' advice to consumers came as he disclosed government test results showing 23 percent of canned tuna tested so far contained poisonous mercury higher than the FDA limit of 0.5 parts per million. The most found was 1.12, or twice the government limit.

Industry is now recalling $21,600 cans with excess mercury after a check of 139 tuna lots.

30,000 Lots

FDA officials believe virtually every major tuna brand will be involved in recalls as soon as sampling is expanded during the next 30 days to include all 30,000 lots packed in 1970 for American consumption.

Edwards said the 0.5 guideline is extremely cautious and "offers a substantial margin for safety."

"I want to re-emphasize the point that given present levels of tuna consumption in this country, the relatively low levels of excess mercury content found to date, and the fact that even this excess is being removed, we are confident that the American consumer is now and will remain safe from risks of mercury poisoning," he said. Dr. Albert C. Colbye Jr., deputy director of the FDA's bureau of foods, said a person would have to eat two cans of tainted tuna a day for a year before he would be poisoned.

Various Results

Mercury taken into the body can cause blindness, insanity or death.

Japan is the only country where mercury poisoning from fish consumption has been reported. The Japanese eat more fish than Americans and the mercury level causing harm was 10 to 80 times the U.S. limit, Edwards said.

The tuna findings are the first, major confirmed ones involving mercury contamination of ocean fish. High mercury levels have been reported previously in fresh water fish exposed to industrial mercury discharges.

The source of the ocean mercury is unknown. But government scientists say it is probably natural deposits of the metal on the ocean floor that work their way into the aquatic food chain.

Edwards said the tuna industry will monitor all future packs for excess mercury. Any imported tuna containing more than the 0.5 limit will be seized, he said.

Mother Who Imprisoned Girl Is Freed

ALHAMBRA, Calif. (AP) — A mother accused of keeping her 13-year-old daughter a prisoner in a small room for most of the girl's life has been cleared of a child abuse charge.

Alhambra Municipal Court Judge Peter Smith dismissed Tuesday the charge, a felony, against Irene Wiley, 50, of Arcadia. He said the district attorney couldn't prove she had intended to harm her daughter, Susan.

Mrs. Wiley said after the ruling that now she only wants to "try to help Susan make progress." The child is at a hospital in the custody of county juvenile authorities, who say she has the mentality of an infant and subnormal physical development.

The girl's father, Clark Wiley, shot himself to death last Nov. 20 shortly before he and his estranged wife were to appear in court for arraignment on charges in the case.

Mrs. Wiley, who is partially blind, left her husband Nov. 1 after 30 years of marriage. She applied for public welfare, which led to the inquiry into Susan's condition.

Daughter Divorced, Sen. Brooke Says

BOSTON (AP) — The 21-year-old daughter of Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., has obtained a divorce.

A spokesman for the senator said Tuesday that Remi Brooks Hasler obtained an uncontested decree last February from Donald R. Hasler of Milford, N.J., whom she married June 22, 1968.

The spokesman added that she has returned to Northeastern University, which she attended before the marriage.

Detail Under Orders From Capt. Medina

Young GI Kept Careful Account Of What Was Said

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — With the detail of a bookkeeper, a young GI kept a diary while in Vietnam. The night before C Company stormed into My Lai, Thomas H. Partsch wrote:

"We are really going to hit something tomorrow. We are going to hit four places. It's a really hot place."

In the soldier's parlance, "hot" means an enemy is waiting, ready to fight.

But when C Company got to My Lai, Partsch testified Tuesday at Lt. William L. Calley's court-martial, "it looked like a deserted village."

Partsch and other witnesses testifying in defense of Calley, who is charged with murder of 102 My Lai villagers that day, say their impression of the foe came from the company commander, Capt. Ernest Medina.

Medina Briefing

Partsch said he made his diary note after Medina briefed the entire company. Partsch, 23, a bookkeeper for a Johnstown, Pa., oil distributor, said he wanted "something to remember the day by."

He was not asked while on the witness stand whether he recorded any details of the March 16, 1968, assault.

Calley was almost unmentioned in the courtroom as witnesses testified about Medina's role. The defense hopes to show that Calley was only following superior orders—including Medina's.

Medina himself had been through a task force briefing. Roger Alaux Jr. testified.

Alaux, who had been a prosecution witness earlier, said also that while troops were gathered after My Lai near the South China Sea some prisoners were interrogated by Vietnamese national police and then shot to death in a shallow ditch.

"Kill everything that breathed," is how Salvador Lamartina of New Orleans understood Medina's instructions.

"Did you obey the order?" he was asked.

"Yes sir."

"What did you do?"

"Killed everything that breathed."

Free TV Campaigning For Candidates Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Federal Communications Commission has proposed a solution for those political candidates who complain television advertising is too expensive.

Commercial TV time should be free and equally apportioned for all campaigners and they should be prohibited from buying more exposure, says Nicholas Johnson, who maintains stations can afford to do it as a public service.

Each political appearance should be at least five minutes, he said.

Johnson said free time should be equally apportioned among major party candidates and be made available to others based on votes received in previous elections or on the number of signatures on petitions.

U.N. Concludes Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly today wound up a session at which it marked its 25th birthday and saw Red China come closer than ever before to winning a seat in the world forum.

It was a session in which the Asian-African group threw their considerable numbers into a drive to isolate South Africa and Portugal and eventually drive the white supremacist regimes out of the United Nations.

Communist China got a foot in the door this year with a 51-49 vote endorsing membership for the Red regime. But there were 25 abstentions, and Peking was blocked by the usual U.S. resolution requiring a two-thirds vote for entry.

New Situation

The surge in support for Peking brought acknowledgment from the United States that a new situation existed and that Washington was reappraising its position.

The emphasis in American speeches at this session was on keeping Nationalist China in the United Nations rather than on keeping the Communists out, and many delegates predicted that Washington next year would abandon its insistence that Chinese representation is an "important question" requiring a two-thirds majority for approval.

The agenda this year included items dealing with racial segregation in South Africa, colonialism in Portugal and white rule in Rhodesia. The assembly adopted six resolutions calling for a propaganda campaign against apartheid in South Africa, including preparation of special documents on the subject by Secretary-General U Thant, and weekly broadcasts by the Organization of African Unity in cooperation with the United Nations.

Ratify Treaty

In the field of disarmament, the assembly called on member nations to ratify a draft treaty banning nuclear weapons from the ocean floor.

The assembly also called on the United States and the Soviet Union to cease deployment of nuclear weapons systems as an aid to their strategic arms limitation talks, or SALT, in Helsinki.

Another resolution called for suspension of nuclear weapons tests, both in the atmosphere and underground.

The United States hailed passage of a resolution which it hopes will help Americans held prisoner by North Vietnam. The resolution, plainly aimed at Hanoi, threw U.N. support behind efforts of the International Red Cross to obtain compliance with the Geneva conventions on treatment of prisoners.

Turning to the rash of plane hijackings that have plagued governments on both sides of the Atlantic, the assembly called on all countries to crack down on aerial piracy by punishing or extraditing perpetrators.

In an attempt to interest youth in helping developing countries, the assembly approved the establishment of an international volunteer youth corps patterned after the U.S. Peace Corps.

Huber Says He'll Quit National Democratic Committeeman Post

MADISON (AP)—Robert T. Huber, D-West Allis, announced Tuesday he would resign his post of Wisconsin Democratic national committeeman effective with the opening of the state party convention in June of 1971.

Huber, the Speaker-elect in the Assembly, said it would be "an injustice" to his new office to hold two positions. He also said it is "the obligation for political leaders to set a moral tone in society that is above reproach."

Until his resignation, Huber said he would vote with the committee only on matters that do not touch state governments or his legislative capacity. He said he would not be active in collecting political funds.

Terrorist Tosses Bomb In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — A terrorist threw a hand grenade at a soda stand outside a U.S. Navy Seabee billet tonight, killing at least three Vietnamese and wounding about 30 American servicemen and Vietnamese civilians.

Investigators said the terrorist was believed to be a Viet Cong who escaped. He hurled a fragmentation grenade. Military doctors treated the wounded at the U.S. 3rd Field Hospital, a few blocks away. They said half the wounded were Americans.

One of the American victims awaiting surgery reported: "There were about 20 of us Americans standing around having a beer when somebody tossed the grenade right among us. Almost everyone must have got hit."

The blast wrecked one car and several motorcycles and left the area littered with glass.

It was the second explosion in Saigon in two nights. A 30-pound bomb ripped through a U.S. officers' hotel Tuesday night, wounding two Americans and two Vietnamese.

Educators Say Quality Education Needs Quality Budget

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

How can a dedicated educator armed with what he calls "quality education" fight the fiscal battle with the politician who is wildly waving a constituent's property tax bill over his head?

And how can the public be expected to understand quality education when educators, school board members and Fiscal Control Board members find it difficult not impossible—to define?

Programs for All

Yet, quality education is the key to youths success and to the well-being of the nation, educators say.

What is quality education? This question is becoming more important—and frustrating—in these days of heavy taxes and tight budgets.

The definitions are almost as numerous as the respondents. But teachers and administrators generally agree with the philosophy of the Appleton school system—to guarantee that there will be some kind of program and activity for any youngster who walks through the school door, a program which will prepare him for his next step in life.

"We try to have something for everybody," says Mrs. Harold Danford, a board of education member.

George Buckley, Appleton's mayor and frequent critic of school spending programs, has a different view of educational quality.

"I think their (educators') idea of quality has gone far beyond what is required for a kid to get into college," he says.

He thinks that "good basic education in mathematics and English" is quality education.

Difficult to Measure

Town of Grand Chute Chairman Ira Livingston admits that as an educational layman, he finds it very difficult to measure quality education.

"It's a complex problem," he says, noting that he often has second thoughts after every time he votes on a school budget.

Rising taxes and a growing uproar of taxpayer complaints in the sensitive ears of local politicians have added to the complications, and the result has been record school budget cutbacks by the fiscal board, the governing board which controls the local tax contribution to the school district.

Most educators are property taxpayers and they understand property taxpayers' concern, but they also fear a faltering educational system.

"We just can't start hacking away and continue to say we've got quality education," says Gary Lemery, Franklin Elementary School teacher.

Community Attitude

Karl Becker, a board of education member, agreed but he also feels a responsibility to be alert to the attitude of the community. "Because education costs money, the level of quality is proportional to what the community will pay," he says.

Becker believes that if the funds are short, and the resultant quality low in Appleton, then "education must accept much of the blame for not selling its worth to the community." He repeatedly urged the board of education to consider establishing a stronger public relations program.

But does quality education cost money? There also is division on this question, but most educators and others interviewed think it does.

Acting Supt. of Schools Orlyn Zieman and James Westphal, elementary coordinator, say it doesn't have to cost money but that when funds go below a point—as they have or are near to now—the quality is lost.

Some Changes

"I think we can provide quality education by making some changes," he says, notably in areas for improving efficiency in use of personnel, facilities and equipment.

Zieman says that it's up to the community to decide at what quality level they want their educational system. "If the public wants to cut quality," he says, "we're just going to put more and more pressure on the classroom teacher to be all things to the kid."

Westphal admits this, in itself, is a threat to quality because it boxes in the teacher and makes other school systems look better to the teacher who wants to be creative.

Thomas O'Hearn, Highland Elementary principal, said the "real key is the relationship between the teacher and the pupil." The cost items, such as equipment, only enhance the program.

Miss Elizabeth Plowright, English-history teacher at Appleton West, also feels it doesn't have to cost much money. She says the dedicated and innovative classroom teacher can do much to provide quality education, and extracurriculars, such as debate and forensics—also probably gauges of quality—"aren't all that expensive."

COG Programs Not Hurt By Town's Withdrawal

Lucey Hears Plea

'Stop Crime First'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A Milwaukee attorney has proposed that until crime on the streets can be halted the courts should selectively enforce laws, concentrating on criminal sanctions against those who hurt others.

Attorney James Shellow spoke this week at Gov. Elect Patrick J. Lucey's budget hearing on a more responsive state and local government system.

Since it is economically unfeasible to hire the number of police needed to clean up all crime and make the streets safe, Shellow said, the officials who are on the job should set a priority on enforcing the truly criminal laws. After the streets are safe, police and courts can consider enforcing moral codes and the Ten Commandments if they wish, Shellow said.

Public drunkenness, issuing worthless checks, illegal sexual behavior and fraud are out of the criminal realm, Shellow said, and should take a lower priority in enforcement. There is no agreement on what morality is, he said, and the courts and police would be better used in those areas of criminal law where there is agreement and need for enforcement.

Citing other problems in the judicial system, Shellow said that the county and circuit court judges are "hopelessly underpaid." The salary for Milwaukee County judges is $27,000 to $28,000 per year and other county judges are paid about $16,000 or $18,000 a year. The associate justices of the state Supreme Court receive only $29,000.

The amounts of remuneration, Shellow said, are not adequate to attract the right people to judgeships.

Planners Prepare For 1971

Although the Town of Menasha's withdrawal from the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) tends to geographically divide the heart of the agency, it shouldn't have any adverse effects on the agency's planning and objectives.

This was the assessment today by Eugene Franchette, COG executive director, as the metropolitan regional planning agency prepares to begin its 1971 operation.

"It will not seriously affect the programs and objectives of the council because the vast majority of the municipalities in the valley recognize the value and the need for an urban regional planning organization and are continuing to support it," he said.

However, his reply to a question hinted that the town could be hurt. "The only question that might be raised would be the town's eligibility for federal grants and aids," he said, noting that most federal agencies require "participating" membership of a regional agency and plan for eligibility.

Review of Plans

Roland Kampe, town chairman, discounted this. He said that the town could require a review of town plans by COG even though it wasn't a member. A review by a regional agency is requested by most federal agencies before grant applications are considered.

Kampe charged that COG had never helped the town and suggested that communities are fed up with the regional push by the federal and state agencies.

"You've got to sell your soul to the federal and state governments to get some money," he said.

The town board voted to pull out of COG several months ago when the apparent federal approval of its second sewerage treatment plant on the west side of Little Lake Butte Des Morts was reversed, Kampe said.

Endorsed 3 Times

He said COG endorsed the plant as conforming with the regional plan three times—the last being Feb. 12, 1970, and the federal government also gave the go-ahead and support for engineering work.

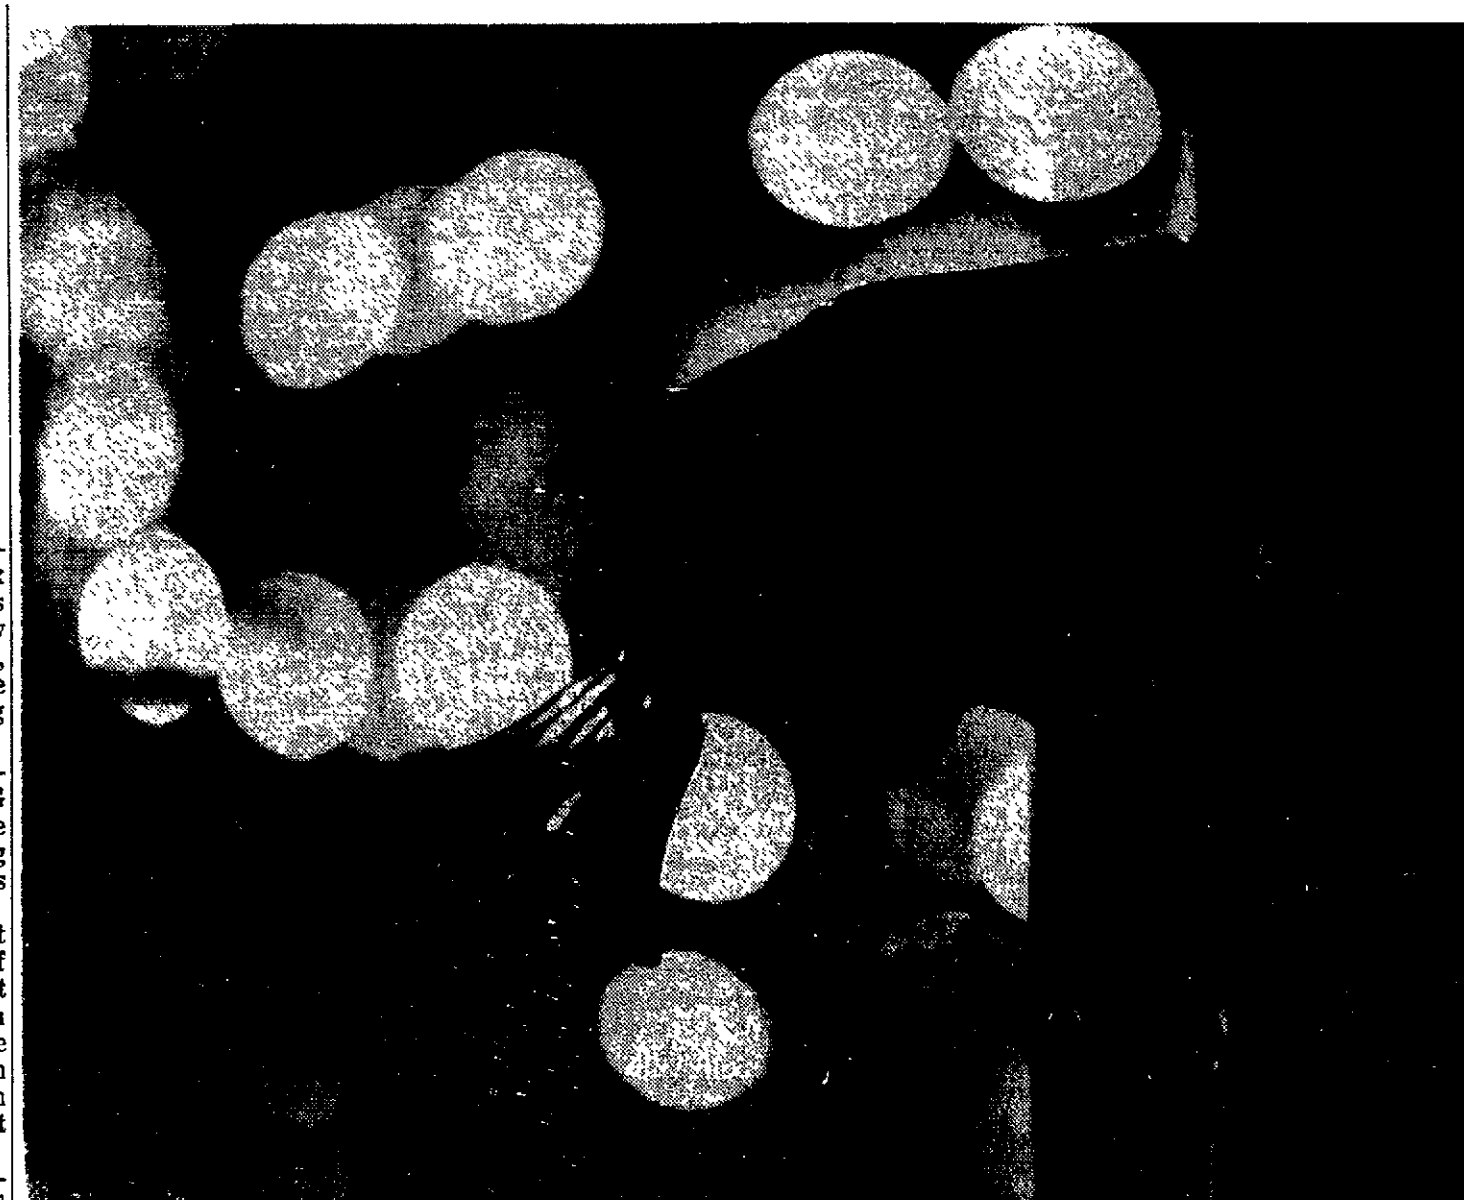

"But then on June 20, the federal government told us to hold up," he said. "You just don't do this when you've got people's money involved."

He said the town would use its own money for the project. He also said that he and other communities' leaders could go to legislators for help if they continued to be pressured for regional approaches.

It appears the township still will be included in regional planning, such as the transportation study, and necessarily so, since such projects can't be effective if segmented. The towns of Vinland and Oshkosh are considered in projects, although they aren't COG members.

Bell Won't Ring

City Hall's Leaking Roof to be Fixed

Appleton officials are fixin' to carry out plans to fix City Hall.

The roof leaks, some of the offices are cramped or poorly situated and Mayor George Buckley wants the bell moved from the belfry to the lawn.

The Board of Public Works Tuesday recommended having city workmen begin the job of renovating and reshuffling some of the offices, and asked Public Works Director Robert Miller to bring proposals to the board at its next meeting in January, for repairing the roof and moving the bell.

The council votes tonight on the proposal to start renovating space for the surveying crew and personnel director.

Miller said the roof leaks in three places—over the planner's office, in the rear of the Council Chamber over the spectator gallery and in the engineering drafting department, all on the second floor.

Buckley has had designs on the bell since a photo of it appeared in a Post-Crescent article about the condition of City Hall, a former schoolhouse built in 1873. Miller has presented two designs for a display carriage and shelter for the City Hall lawn, both similar to the structure displaying a bell at No. 1 Fire Station.

The cost of moving the bell is unknown, but Buckley suggested the job could be done when the roof is fixed. It is expected the belfry roof will have to be removed and the bell lifted out by crane.

$10,000 Repair Cost

The roof repair itself carries a $10,000 cost estimate, and $15,000 is in the 1971 city budget for the renovating project involving several offices.

City Clerk Elden Broehm, recalling labor union objections when city employees performed a previous project in the building, asked whether unions might object to having city employees do the renovating.

Finance Director David Champion replied, "Let them picket. I think the council can run City Hall."

2nd Partition

The first tasks, Champion said, will be to move a partition separating the personnel director's office from space used by his and the city attorney's secretaries. The director's office is to be enlarged.

Another partition is to be built at the rear of the spectator gallery in the Council Chamber to make room for the surveyors who now occupy a basement room. A doorway would connect the new quarters with the public works office, which directs surveyors' activities.

The Health Department would move from its present space to the room currently occupied by the surveyors in the basement, and the finance office would expand into part of the present health offices.

When the roof and bell projects were discussed, Miller jokingly asked Buckley whether he'd trade his bell for the roof repairs, at $10,000. Buckley said he didn't think it would cost that much to remove the bell.

The mayor groused about the delay in seeking bids for moving the bell, saying he wanted to ring it Christmas Eve. Instead, Miller said he will present estimates on both jobs next month—a sort of belated New Year's present to the mayor and board.

Buys House

In other business the board accepted an offer by a local real estate firm to sell the city a house at 200 W. Prospect Ave. for $15,000.

The building is in the proposed right-of-way of the traffic interchange at the north end of the Oneida Street high-level bridge that has been under consideration.

Parks Chairman Urges City Takeover of Youth Center

Appleton could meet recreational needs and solve financial problems by taking over operation of the youth center in the former Congregational Church, Parks and Recreation Commission Chairman Ralph Gertsch told the commission Tuesday.

Gertsch was authorized to work out a proposal to the Board of Public Works with Recreation Supervisor Lloyd Koehnke and report back to the commission in January.

The chairman mentioned several advantages that he sees in commission operation of the center.

He pointed out that the Community Activities Center which currently runs youth activities in the former church is behind in its payments of rent to the city.

Pointing out in addition that the CAC activities are generally confined to weekends, Gertsch suggested that the commission could rent facilities to CAC for the periods when the community group needs them, and make use of the building the rest of the week for other activities.

Gertsch noted, for example, that Recreation Department classes are now run in local schools, and the commission pays the School Board a fee to pay custodians and cover utilities and other expenses. Some of that cost could be eliminated by using the city-owned church building.

Other private organizations could rent facilities from the commission, bringing in income, Gertsch added.

In addition, the commission's 1971 budget includes $1,800 for rent on another former church building to be used as a drop-in center for young people. Using the Congregational Church building during the week for drop-in center activities could save that rental cost, Gertsch suggested.

The chairman said the commission "can accommodate everybody and make the building profitable to everybody, and meet the needs of all of the groups involved."

The commission gave Gertsch power to act on a problem that has been straining members' patience for months—the development of baseball diamonds at Langedyke Park.

Youth Put on Probation for Theft Count

"I understand I did commit a crime, and that there's punishment for it," Dale Holm, 18, said before being sentenced Tuesday for theft. "But," he went on, "I'm attending school, and I really want to better myself."

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer, pleased with the findings of a presentence investigation, stayed a two-year prison term and placed Holm on two years' probation. The first 30 days will be spent in the county jail under the Huber Law.

Holm, route 2, Menasha, formerly worked at the Clark Service Station, 409 E. Wisconsin Ave. on Nov. 16, he told Appleton police the station had been held up by a man who poked a blunt instrument to his back, demanded money and later tied him up. Further investigation revealed that Holm took the money, $244.77, himself. He turned himself in to detectives voluntarily, and explained the circumstances to them. Some of the money has been returned.

Schaefer noted that Holm, who is studying computer technology in Appleton, showed no prior criminal record.

Primary Vote Likely in Executive Race

If more than two candidates file for the office of Outagamie County Executive—and it is likely that there will be—a primary election will be held March 2.

The decision to call a primary if there are more than two candidates, was made today by Outagamie County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan, based on opinions by the state attorney general's office and the secretary of state's office.

Outagamie County voters will elect the county's first executive to a four-year term in April. The election is nonpartisan. Brown County also will elect an executive in April.

Outagamie and Brown will be the first two counties in Wisconsin to elect executives under legislation enacted by the 1969 legislature.

The $18,500 a year post was created by the Outagamie County Board after a countywide referendum endorsed the position by a 3-1 margin last spring. At the same time, the board had created the alternate post of a appointed county administrator. It named Alvin Woelher, who had been executive secretary to the county board for seven years, to that post.

The state legislation permitting the post of elected county executive failed, however, to spell out the number of signatures needed on nomination papers or whether a primary would be necessary if more than two candidates ran.

The attorney general has ruled that only 20 signatures are necessary, the same as for county supervisor. He also ruled that the same primary law would apply to the county executive as applies to county supervisors, since the executive and the supervisors are the only non-partisan county offices.

The statute cited by the attorney general's office as being the "most applicable" reads, in part, "non-partisan candidates nominated for office by nomination papers shall have their names placed on the official primary ballot."

Candidates for county executive can start circulating nomination papers on Jan. 1. Deadline for filing of completed nomination papers is 5 p.m. Jan. 26. The primary would be held March 2 with the general election on April 6.

Outagamie County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan said he understood Brown County planned to follow the same primary procedures.

Quality Education Needs Quality Budget to Survive

teacher and president of the Appleton Education Association, and many other educators disagree, as do the board of education and fiscal board members contacted.

"There's no question that quality education costs money," says Hoehn. He notes that one key to quality is a relatively low pupil-teacher ratio, allowing for more direct contact between the individual student and the instructor.

This is particularly true for slow learners. Appleton schools have classes for this group, and some are on a low ratio.

Richard Pike, math teacher needs, and often are reminded at Appleton East, has classes of 17 and 25 for slow learners. There isn't a significant cost for these classes because these kids would be in another class if of needs, and individuals see they weren't in the special ones, only their own needs," Westphal he says, but admittedly, the says.

Pike expresses the enthusiasm of teachers who see the results of slow learner classes, which some people are saying is a "frill" that Appleton can no longer afford.

"It's a laboratory; it is living, it is breathing relevant education," he says, noting projects undertaken by the students and notable progress in individuals.

Pike also conducts a fifth-year math class, which some might say is unnecessary and could be handled in college. Pike disagrees, and points out, as do many teachers, that meeting the needs of the highly intelligent youngster is as important as assisting the slow learner.

Administrators try to be aware of all these individual feelings which are the Appleton system already is trying to do too much. However, he says this when looking at the demand education is making on the tax dollar.

"They can't take the place of a college education," he says. "Anyway, 16-year-olds like to think they're adults, but they're not adults, they're not finished, they're not polished."

He contends that college or the business world should prepare youngsters for life, not the elementary and secondary schools.

Buckley has pushed for severe cutbacks and feels he has been successful. "They did it with $500,000 a year or two ago, and they can do it with $600,000 this year in their inflated budget," he says.

He has been relentless in his attack on schools and he thinks he has good reason. His latest complaint is that a few teachers are telling kids they can't have certain things because of what the fiscal board did.

Brainwashing Label

The mayor labels this "brainwashing." He notes that this is an old Hitler technique; I don't like to see this going on in the United States.

This exemplifies the intensity of feelings about what Appleton schools should be doing — and shouldn't be doing. Politics has permeated Appleton's education, and the results may be a new direction for the school district.

As Stanley Ore, principal at Appleton East, says of quality education, the measuring of quality, or quality control "is our weakest area." The student cannot be measured, as can the assembly line product, immediately after it comes off the line.

Another educator indicates the alternative will be to become politically active. Appleton educators and those throughout the state are moving toward this end.

Contrast this with Buckley's feelings which are the Appleton system already is trying to do too much. However, he says this when looking at the demand education is making on the tax dollar.

Police & Fire Beat

A 41-year-old Appleton man entered two pleas Tuesday on counts of battery to a police officer and disorderly conduct. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer set a Jan. 7 jury trial for William Elliott, 1501 N. Hall Ave. He is free on a signature bond.

Appleton police allege that Elliott kicked Patrolman Daniel Wouters, 31, in the groin the afternoon of Dec. 11, disabling the officer. They charge the incident occurred in the county jail while he was led to a cell for a disorderly conduct count brought earlier. Authorities had gone to a north side home previously that day, on the report that Elliott was causing a disturbance there. They claim they were met with abuse from Elliott when they arrived.

A year's probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services was ordered Tuesday for Eugene Durkee, 24, 311 Sarah St., Kaukauna, for indecent exposure. He pleaded no contest to the charge brought by Little Chute police from an incident Oct. 19. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer withheld a jail term after noting Durkee had taken steps to overcome the problem through professional help. Schaefer also ordered Durkee to pay court costs.

KAUKAUNA — Mary Warnecke, 20, route 3, Kaukauna, was cited for driving at speeds not reasonable or prudent about 9:35 a.m. Monday after the car she was driving left County Trunk Q, broke off two road marking posts and traveled 120 feet off the road. The car was extensively damaged.

LITTLE CHUTE — Ronald Fleming, 24, 703 Park Ave., forfeited bond of $31 when he failed to appear in Municipal Justice Court Monday night to answer to a charge of imprudent speed. He was arrested following an accident earlier this month.

A Jan. 7 jury trial has been scheduled for Daniel Carpenter, 23, 744 E. Franklin St., after he entered an innocent plea this morning to a burglary charge. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer returned Carpenter to the county jail under $1,500 bond.

Two Trustees Named At St. Norbert College

DE PERE — A member of the art department faculty at Premontre High School and a Green Bay business and civic leader have been named to fill vacancies on the St. Norbert College Board of Trustees. President Robert E. Christin announced today.

The new board members who assume their duties immediately are the Rev. Stephen J. Rossey, O. Praem., of Premontre, and William J. Servotte, president of Bay West Paper Company. Each man will serve a five-year term.

Rossey fills a vacancy created last fall by the resignation of Rev. Timothy A. Reilly and Servotte fills a lay vacancy. Their appointments bring board strength to nine members.

A graduate of St. Norbert with a B. A. in philosophy, Rossey received his M.A. degree in art from Notre Dame. Before coming to Premontre he taught at Bishop Neumann High School in Philadelphia, at Pennings High School in De Pere and at St. Norbert High School (now Pennings).

One-Man Shows

Rossey has had several one-man shows and his work has been included in national exhibitions. He is a member of the Diocesan Sub-commission on Art and Architecture and a member of the Friends of Art and the World Crafts Council. Rossey was ordained in 1959 and he is an elected member of the Canopy Committee on Liturgy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rossey of Weyauwega.

Servotte is president and the former general manager of Bay West Paper Co. His other current positions include the following: vice president and director, Calwis Company; board chairman and director, Green Bay Plastics, Inc.; secretary and director, Paper Specialty Company, Inc.; director, Peoples Finance Corporation. In addition he is a member of many professional, civic, and philanthropic organizations.

Servotte received his undergraduate degree in economics from the University of Pennsylvania and in 1969 he received an honorary doctor of laws degree from St. Norbert College. He is a member of the institution's Board of Governors.

Leadership Meeting GOP Prepares Party Policy

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Republican leadership in the state legislature has quietly begun preparations for developing a party legislative program to balance that of the new Democratic state administration that will take office next month.

The decision was taken here at a private meeting of the principal leaders of the new Republican assembly minority and the Republican majority that will continue to rule in the state senate.

Qualified sources said that the program will constitute an effort to follow the policy line described in a post-election statement by Chairman Reed Coleman of the state Republican organization committee.

Some elements in the GOP program will be alternatives to the policy positions expected to be taken by Gov.-Elect Patrick J. Lucey.

Others will be attempts to challenge the new Democratic administration to fulfill some of its campaign pledges, informants explained.

Lucey in a series of public statements has already indicated that he is doubtful of the ability of his administration to honor some of his campaign commitments, at least in the first legislative sitting of his term.

The newly chosen state executive has emphasized recently that the state's financial problems are worse than he had known. He said he will be reluctant to offer the kind of tax program that will be required to cover declines in revenues from existing state tax sources, huge additions in the ordinary operating budgets of state agencies, and the local property tax relief to which the Democratic campaign appeal had been pegged.

The prospective Republican challenge to the Democratic governor promises, by offering difficult financing bills, will follow precedents created by Democrats when they held a minority role during the six years of the administration of Gov. Warren Knowles.

The partisan clashes impending, therefore, make it unlikely that the 1971 legislature will be able to conclude its work speedily.

Children Plan Christmas Events

SHERWOOD — St. John-Sacred Heart Catholic School will hold its annual Christmas program beginning at 8 p.m. today in the school hall. The program will feature playlets, poems and Christmas music by children in the fourth through eighth grades.

At 7:30 p.m. Thursday children at Harrison School will perform in their annual program. Related to this event, the Harrison School Parent Teacher Organization, will sponsor a bake sale to raise funds for children's class trips.

Heart Fund Chairman Named for Appleton

An Appleton man, John A. Holland, 2300 Woodlark Road, has been appointed special gifts chairman of the 1971 Heart Fund campaign for the city.

Holland, a member of the Lawrence University faculty, will direct a committee to solicit Heart Fund contributions from area individuals, businesses and foundations. The campaign began this month.

and cut off the planning area," Franchett said. "The people and the needs of the people of the Town of Menasha must be taken into account regardless of their political heads choose to contribute to the organization."

He noted that other regional agencies in the nation have experienced similar problems, often only temporarily.

Franchett said that COG never has had all municipalities in this urban area as members during its 14-year existence; however, he added this would be the ideal situation.

The Town of Menasha is officially out Jan. 1, 1971, leaving COG at 14 members. It had been a 14-member organization until about six months ago when the Town of Vandenberg joined. In the past three years, Oshkosh and Sherwood also joined.

The Town of Menasha contributed something over $7,000 to the annual COG budget which includes federal and state grants. The 1971 budget was made up without Menasha, and also was cut in a budget hassle, and therefore, won't affect other communities' shares, Franchett said.

The agency will cut back in services but not eliminate any programs, he added.

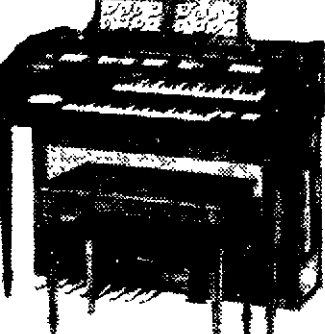

Kampo said the sewerage plant incident was only the final straw in his discontent with the agency. He also criticized their proposed comprehensive plan which included zoning in the township but which was set up without consultation with town officials.

He also assailed the lack of implementation. "I see no benefits from the whole pile of studies," he said, noting the town could hire a planner and get results for only a little more than COG was costing it.

He also noted his town board was contemplating what to do about planning services.

Proposal to Limit Radioactivity Hit

MADISON (AP) — Power utility spokesmen registered disapproval Tuesday of proposals that Wisconsin increase federal limits on the amount of radioactivity a nuclear-powered electric generator plant could dump into lakes and streams.

Minnesota has adopted standards that are more rigid than those set up by the Atomic Energy Commission. Spokesmen addressing a Department of Natural Resources hearing urged Wisconsin not to follow Minnesota's lead.

Sol Burstein, vice president of Wisconsin Electric Power Co., said his company is ready to keep radioactive discharge at "as low a level as possible" and questioned whether state limits could be any more effective than the AEC limits.

Burstein's remarks were made during discussion of the Point Beach nuclear plant, which Wisconsin Electric and Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. are building five miles south of a Kewaunee plant on Lake Michigan.

of Green Bay is unpotable?" Gaffney asked the hearing.

Northern States Power Co. has filed a federal court challenge to Minnesota's radioactive limits, arguing that only the AEC has the authority to regulate nuclear facilities.

A ruling in the case is expected early next year. Meantime, Wisconsin has entered the case as a friend of the court, allowing Wisconsin attorneys to question witnesses.

Conservationists, already concerned about nuclear plants pumping heated water into fishing streams and lakes, have described even small amounts of radioactivity as an unnecessary additional hazard.

"Zero Release"

A Madison lawyer, James Olson, cited the so-called "zero release" system which a manufacturer is now advertising as a means of holding the discharge to a minimum.

Olson said the safety equipment would add only $1 million to the Kewaunee plant's cost, meaning two cents more per month for the average homeowner's electric bill.

Utility spokesmen said the "zero release" system hasn't been perfected.

James said the firms building the Kewaunee plant are conducting safety studies. The results of the studies, he added, would be continuing after the plant begins operations in September, 1972.

The studies began four years ago, James said they indicate the Lake Michigan region near the Kewaunee plant "does not contain significant amounts of plant or animal life."

One of the Point Beach reactors went into operation Nov. 3, but isn't to begin turning out electricity until next year.

Burnstein said that should Wisconsin decide to draw up radioactivity restrictions, they shouldn't be confined to a power plant's discharge of water.

Youth Fined After Charge Is Reduced

An Appleton youth pleaded guilty in Circuit Court this morning after a burglary count was reduced to one of receiving stolen property.

Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell imposed a fine of $100 and costs on Donald Stoffel, 18, of 912 W. Parkway Blvd. Stoffel had previously been bound over to the Circuit Court after a preliminary hearing in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Stoffel was originally charged with burglary in connection with a break-in at the home of Henry Geenen, route 1, Kaukauna, where a piggy-bank holding an estimated $400 in coins was taken last May 30.

County investigators said that Stoffel received about $5 of the stolen money, on June 5. Another 18-year-old boy will be sentenced on the same offense Friday in Branch 2.

Assistant Dist. Atty. R. Thomas Cane told the court this morning the state decided to reduce the count against Stoffel because of his "limited participation" in the incident.

Donald Goffard, 18, route 1, Kaukauna, was placed on two years' probation earlier for burglary. A juvenile boy, who authorities said may have initiated the alleged break-in, will appear later in Juvenile Court.

Break-in Reported at Appleton Gas Station

Appleton police are investigating an overnight break-in at the Zimmerman Spur Service Station, 1500 W. Wisconsin Ave., where intruders took $71 from a cash register.

Police said that entry to the office section was made by kicking open a glass door panel.

Hearing on Pollution Problems Protect the State Environment

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Wisconsin's governor surely has a pretty good idea by now that the state's environmental problems are many, monstrous, varied, complex, challenging and critical.

Thirty-two persons representing assorted interests and concerns had the ear here Tuesday of Patrick J. Lucey, successor-elect to Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Their testimony at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay came on the opening day of Lucey's budget hearing on environmental and life support protection. The hearing ended today as state agency officials took their turns, presenting requests and outlining program objectives.

Some of Tuesday's testimony actually was addressed directly to the budget. More of it concerned general environmental protection policy and philosophy.

A paper industry spokesman expressed hope that the state won't get unreasonably tough with the pulp and paper mills. Others spoke up for a get-tough policy all around.

Collision Course

"A policy of instant abatement is on a collision course with common sense social and economic values," warned William R. Nelson, director of corporate development at Green Bay Packaging, Inc.

He indicated that recent Department of Natural Resources orders could force some mills to shut down or reduce output and employment. Altogether he said, the Wisconsin paper industry has more than 45,000 employees.

Nelson agreed that the paper industry has been a serious polluter of the state's waters. But, he emphasized, the industry has spent much money and effort on abatement, and is aiming to do even better in the future.

"Every papermaking river in Wisconsin is today in better condition than 10 years ago, in spite of population increases and consequent growth of industrial water use," he maintained.

Instant Perfection

"We are, however, greatly concerned that in many instances we are being required to meet unreasonably close deadlines and unreasonably high quality criteria. Current public and political sentiment is demanding instant perfection of the environment, on the incorrect premise that a critical emergency exists and that the protection of human society is at stake."

Nelson said the paper industry needs some form of state assistance "to forestall the economic and social calamities that Wisconsin's current pollution control policies must inevitably bring."

The need for uniform national standards on pollution abatement was stressed by Theodore Jaeger, Park Falls, representing the Wisconsin Conservation Congress.

"If all industries are forced to comply," he reasoned, "then all will remain where they are."

There was no sympathy for polluters from Gordon A. Bubolz, Appleton. Head of an insurance company, which presumably does not pollute, he also is president of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission. He called for a new orientation in thinking.

"We've got to look at pollution cases with the same gravity we consider a murder trial, for we are slowly killing ourselves through gradual destruction of the environment," Bubolz told Lucey.

Bubolz admonished the governor-elect to make sure that no people "with pollution interests to protect" are allowed to sit on any environmental protection boards.

"This has been done in Wisconsin in the past, and it cannot be allowed to continue," he declared. "As much as possible, resource protection board members must be isolated from political pressure groups and special interest groups."

Slaps at DNR

Slaps at the Department of Natural Resources, the state's main environmental protection agency, were taken by John Wilson, of the Wisconsin Ecological Society, Green Bay, and E. J. Casper, Chilton, representing Save Lake Winnebago, Inc.

They said the DNR is too lax, too slow and too remote from the real problems.

Housing project reservoirs in Menominee County were cited by Wilson as examples of what he called ill-advised use of natural facilities.

The developers, he said, got state permission to dam three creeks "against some highly expert advice." He said a conflict of "philosophical interests" within the department led to approval of the reservoir development.

The department staff is "weighted in favor of engineers," he said, calling for more biologists.

The department's record includes a pair of "outrageous situations" concerning solid waste, Wilson said.

4-Month Bag

The department lagged for six months before reporting the Town of Green Bay to the Justice Department for action against an artesian well pollution from a town dump, he said.

The other case, he said, involved issuance of dump permits to a paper company "in a beautifully wooded ravine with an intermittent creek that drains to the Fox River."

A suggestion for improvement, of pollution control efforts was made by Dr. Irving Fox, of the University of Wisconsin's Water Resources Center, Madison.

"The state lacks sufficient staff to plan and implement regional water quality programs. There are some good people, but there are not enough of them," Fox contended.

Reid Bryson, with the UW Institute for Environmental Studies, Madison, saw a need for further research to find new and better solutions for environmental problems. He said the university can be a valuable participant in what should be an integrated approach.

"I hope the expertise of the DNR can be brought into the classroom," Bryson added.

"The educational effort for the environment should not be confined to a single campus or university. Every institution of learning should be involved."

The detergent dilemma was discussed by Dr. C. G. Bueltman, New York City, representing the Soap and Detergent Manufacturers Association. He agreed that the phosphates in detergents are a serious problem, but warned that forcing hasty substitution might be dangerous.

"The industry is committed to eliminating phosphates as soon as it can be done safely. We must be sure that new products will not create new problems even more serious than the phosphates," he said.

With good sewage treatment, a high degree of phosphate removal can be achieved, Bueltman pointed out.

Monitoring Important

The importance of environmental monitoring, including land, air, water and noise, was emphasized by Dr. Rodney V. Harmsworth, vice president of Limnetics, Inc., Milwaukee. A similar suggestion was made earlier by Sol Burstein, senior vice president of the Wisconsin Power and Light Co., Milwaukee.

"We must provide qualitative descriptions with a network system on a statewide basis," Harmsworth said.

He recommended creation of a new, special state agency to assist the government on all facets of environmental management. The agency would provide the direction for the existing state enforcement agencies.

The DNR's policy of forcing cities to extend sewage treatment services to outlying areas was hit by Ray Watts, city manager of Eau Claire and an officer of the Wisconsin Alliance of Cities.

Annexation Pushed

"The real solution should be annexation to the city," Watts declared. "Those outlying areas want to use city facilities and services, but they want to retreat to their tax islands and have no part of urban problems."

A similar view of the League by Ed Johnson, of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, Madison.

Gene Franchetti, Appleton, executive director of the Fox Valley Council of Governments, pointed out that the environmental community knows no political boundaries. That's one of several important reasons, he said, why concerned citizens should look at the regional approach to problem solving.

Sympathy for people who want to build "a second home" in Door County was expressed by John Brogan, Green Bay, who said he is a former Door County land developer. There is so much rock and so little soil in Door County, he explained, that septic tanks cannot operate efficiently and prospective builders can't get installation permits.

Not Allowed in State

Brogan said there are devices that could be installed by individual home owners to take care of the waste problem. The DNR doesn't allow them in Wisconsin. Brogan suggested appointment of the commission or committee to make a study of units being used in other states.

UWGB students speaking briefly and expressing concern for the environment, include David Timmerman, Nancy Jochman and Dennis Borkovec. One student mentioned a "Ban the Can" project on the campus to discourage empty beer cans. "Let them ban the beer," muttered an observer in back of the room, "and they'll really be making a sacrifice."

Kaukauna School Boundaries Set

KAUKAUNA — The board of education has established boundary lines to govern school attendance for the 1971-72 school year as recommended in a study of school enrollments and population centers by Bernard Smith, principal of Victor Haen School.

Haen School will be open full time for the beginning of the 1971 school year. Board members decided that all children from kindergarten through sixth grade in the Beaulieu Hill area would be transported to Victor Haen School.

Electa Quinney

First, fourth and fifth graders in an area west of Eden Avenue, second and third graders west of Forester Avenue and sixth graders west of Kenneth Street also will be transported to Haen School. This is necessary because of overcrowding in Nicolet School and to fill class enrollments at Haen School.

Kindergarten and sixth graders west of Depot Street will attend Haen School and those east of Depot will go to Park School. First, second and fourth graders north of railway tracks will attend Haen and those south of the tracks will attend Park. Third graders west of Kaukauna Street will attend Haen and those east of Kaukauna Street will attend Park. Fifth graders west of Idlewild Street will attend Haen and those to the east of Idlewild will be enrolled at Park.

Board members instructed Smith to present programs to Parent-Teacher Organizations in the city to acquaint them with boundary lines, explaining how and why they were established and answer questions which might arise.

Christmas Program Is Set at Greenville

GREENVILLE — The preschool religion classes of St. Mary Church, will present a Christmas program at the school hall, after the 9 a.m. mass Sunday, Dec. 20. Coffee, milk and cookies will be served. Class instructors are Mrs. Earl Schroeder, Mrs. Richard Kueller and Mrs. Ronald Martin.

Price Increases Spur Fighting in Poland

WARSAW (AP) — Six persons were killed and scores more injured in two days of rioting over price increases in the northern Polish city of Gdansk, the Polish Press Agency reported today.

Rioting also was reported in the nearby Baltic cities of Gdynia and Sopot.

Food prices have risen an average of 20 per cent.

The protests against price rises set off street battles, arson and looting on Monday and Tuesday in the first major disturbances reported in Poland since early 1968.

The official news agency did not mention disorders in Gdynia and Sopot but diplomatic informants and Radio Gdansk broadcasts had said earlier that bloody outbursts also gripped those areas. They said fires raged in the old section of Gdansk.

The news agency dispatch was the first official word on the disorders.

The news agency's account blamed the outbursts on hooligans and adventurers.

It said:

"Using the situation which arose among the crew of the Gdansk shipyards, adventurist and hooligan elements having nothing in common with the working class, demolished and burned several public buildings and looted several shops (more than 10). Murders of intervening police were committed. There were also many heavily injured who are now hospitalized. As a result of these clashes caused by hooligans, six persons were killed and tens were injured."

"Firm steps undertaken by the authorities led to dispersing the adventurist elements and to the return of order in the city. At the same time, the authorities have warned that they will react with a firmness upon any violation of public order and all antistate activity."

Firm Steps

Militiamen were patrolling the cities' streets and the governor of Gdansk broadcast appeals for calm.

All flights from Warsaw to Gdansk were cancelled. Telephone operators refused calls to the area.

Radio Gdansk made a further appeal for calm and urged the people of Gdansk, Gdynia and Sopot not to hoard food.

Justice Douglas Planning To Keep High Court Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice William O. Douglas said today he intends to stay on the Supreme Court and he called on young people "to keep the faith" by fighting through the law for civil rights.

At an unusual news conference, the white-haired justice said he has always been proud to be a member of the Supreme Court. He said he had freely made all his files available to a special House committee investigating his behavior and now that it has "performed its constitutional duties... I will try to continue to perform mine as a member of the Court."

The committee concluded there are no grounds for impeaching Douglas. Some House conservatives, who have been firing at the 72-year-old justice for months, are expected to resume their attack next year.

House to Pay for McCormack's Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee says retiring Speaker of the House John W. McCormack will be reimbursed for operation of his Boston office for the first two years of his retirement.

A resolution passed Tuesday also gave McCormack two staff employees whose salaries would be paid from House funds. The total pay of $38,000 for the two was expected to be reduced by McCormack to $27,000 or less.

With 42 years of House service McCormack qualifies for an annual pension of about $50,000.

Threat Against SST Foes Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Senate opponents of the Super-sonic Transport go through with a threatened filibuster, SST backers plan to maneuver them into the blame for blocking other important Senate business.

Anti-SST forces led by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., have said they will talk as long as necessary—even to the end of the current lame-duck session of Congress—to kill a compromise allotting $210 million for SST development this year.

The compromise came out of a Senate-House conference and the House approved the appropriation measure by a 319-71 vote Tuesday.

The Senate earlier voted 52-41 against $290 million for the plane, which would kill the SST program, and Proxmire said, "We believe we have the power" to filibuster the compromise to legislative death.

He said the filibuster would be solely against the SST and plane opponents would seek to suspend it frequently to permit Senate action on other bills.

But the SST bill's floor manager, Sen. Alan Bihle, D-Nev., said he does not intend to put the appropriations measure aside for any other measures until it comes to a vote.

That would force the SST critics into the position of blocking dozens of major bills, including welfare and Social Security, which most of them favor, with their filibuster against the plane.

The showdown is expected when the Senate takes up a $2.6 billion transportation appropriation containing funds for development of the 1,800-mile-an-hour jetliner.

"Not Blocking"

"We're not blocking anything," Proxmire said. "We're letting all other business up. And they could pass that (appropriation) in two minutes with the SST out of it."

The sole purpose of the filibuster, he said, would be to cut SST funds out of the $2.6-billion money bill for now and vote on them separately Jan. 23 or 24, after the new Congress convenes.

Proxmire said he still would vote against the money for the SST, but said he would lead no further drive against it in January.

"That would mean the SST program would be out of business for a few weeks—and I hope it would be out of business permanently," he said. "But, if they (SST backers) are right, the money would be approved."

The $210 million, trimmed $80 million from President Nixon's $290 million request, is this year's allotment of $1.3 billion federal money for developing two SST prototypes and testing them in 1973.

Illinois Constitution Updated But Age 18 Vote Is Rejected

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois voters have adopted a new state constitution that streamlines the tax system and bans job and housing discrimination. But they apparently rejected a separate proposal to give the power of the ballot to 18-year-olds.

With 10,292 of the 10,915 poll places in the state reported, the totals were 1,072,297 votes in favor of the new state charter and 786,683 opposed.

The new measure needed only a simple majority of the ballots cast in the statewide referendum Tuesday. The present constitution is 100 years old.

The victory of the new document reflected a heavily favorable turnout of Chicago area Democrats, led by Mayor Richard J. Daley, who favored the new Constitution with some reservations.

Chicago Victory

Voters outside the Chicago area — Cook County — rejected the charter, 456,325 to 386,333.

Topcoat weather and lack of interest kept the turnout of voters to near 30 per cent statewide, but the figure was close to 40 per cent in Chicago.

The draft constitution was supported by a broad coalition that included leaders of both political parties, business and civic groups and most news media.

Opponents of the new charter, such as urban blight and faltering transit systems.

Four other proposals were presented separately to the voters:

—The vote for 18-year-olds apparently defeated with incomplete returns showing account of 978,519 to 824,194 against.

—Abolition of the death penalty, rejected 1,139,708 to 627,522.

—Replacement of three-member districts to 327,522.

—Replacement of three-member districts in the Illinois House with single-member districts, turned down, 986,502 to 786,683.

—Making judgeships appointive instead of elective, voted down 953,428 to 820,150.

Women's Rights

The charter specifies that women will have equal rights with men in dealing with the government and outlaws racial bias in employment and housing.

It grants broad home rule taxing powers to some cities and counties that consider the

Jailed Editor Has Court Call Sheriff

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Walworth County sheriff has been ordered to appear Thursday in U.S. District Court in reply to a writ petition filed by Mark C. Knops, jailed editor of a Madison underground publication.

Knops has asked that he be freed immediately from a jail term imposed for contempt after he declined to answer questions during a Walworth County grand jury investigation.

Sheriff William Cummings was told Tuesday by Judge John W. Reynolds to appear before him and reply to the petition. Knops has also appealed the contempt citation to the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

Knops, 27, was asked to testify before the grand jury after his tabloid, the Kaleidoscope, published an article concerning the fatal Aug. 24 University of Wisconsin bombing in Madison.

The jury was investigating incidents of arson at Whitewater State University, and included the UW bombing in its studies.

Knops said the Constitution's guarantees of freedom of the press allow him not to disclose news sources. He was sent to jail Sept. 23 after declining to answer what sources said were five questions.

His sentence is five months and seven days. His federal court petition reported he can be freed for good behavior by mid-January.

present system, after seeing you fired?

A—In the letters we get, obviously they're disappointed that this kind of thing had to happen.

We've received thousands of telegrams and letters... saying: "He (Nixon) didn't fire a man, he fired an idea."

Q—Well, what would you say to a teen-ager who asked, "After what happened to you, why should I bother to try?"

Great Opportunities

A—I would say: Don't give up. There are some great opportunities. And the ideas that we're working for are attainable within the system. We're going to work in that direction.

Q—What are your plans now, and do they include politics?

A—I have no ambitions other than seeing problems solved.

I think there's a life-style in America changing. More and more, people are looking for people to solve problems, people that they can believe in, regardless of political affiliation.

More than anything, we have to motivate the people. It doesn't take billions of dollars to solve some problems. It takes the desire to solve those problems.

That's the message that I'd like to carry.

"I'm going home. But I'm not going away."

Minnesota Warns of High-Mercury Fish

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A federal-state task force said Tuesday that mercury levels in fish taken from four specific water areas in Minnesota are high enough to pose potential danger to humans.

The task force said fish taken from the waters should be eaten no more than once a week.

The four areas are the St. Louis River from Cloquet to Lake Superior, the Mississippi River from Grand Rapids to Anoka, the Red River from Moorhead to the Canadian border and Lake Minnewaska near Glenwood.

Fish taken from 13 other lakes and rivers showed no high mercury concentrations.

Policemen Not Sold On Baseball Caps

WESTMINSTER, Calif. (AP) — "Some said they felt like baseball umpires," said Police Chief Conner L. Callacott, referring to the baseball style caps tossed aside by the department here.

"The caps represented something new and different and the officers didn't care for them."

BY TV SCOUT
9-10 Channel 5 — The third of NBC's Four-In-One is Rod Serling's Night Gallery. These are tales of horror, with Rod wandering through an eerie art gallery, pausing before paintings which introduce the segments. The first, and better, is "The Dead Man," with Carl Betz as a doctor who has discovered a method, via hypnosis, of making a young man simulate symptoms of various diseases. Then he wills the young man to die. Jeff Corey discovers the secret, which leads to the scary ending, involving Louise Sorel, as Betz's wife. The second story is more light-hearted, with Larry Hagman as a young man who has perfected a "soul transfer." He wants to put a beautiful soul into the beautiful exterior of his cold-hearted wife (Suzy Parker) and picks Jeanette Nolan, magnificently made up as a sweet but ugly old lady.

7-8 Channel 5 — Bing Crosby's Christmas Show has some delightful moments, mostly provided by pert Melba Moore, who proves why Broadway critics went wild over her performance in "Purlie." She's a little girl doing her shopping in an original song, "Time Is Getting Short," and she's a determined Salvation Army lassie, with Bing an equally determined street corner Santa arguing over the territory in "Christmas On the Corner." Other guests are The Doodletown Pipers ("Movin' the Mail") as postal workers; Jack Wild, in a fairy tale called "The Feast of Fools;" and the entire Crosby clan.

6:30-7 Channel 5 — This is the third Christmas season for The Little Drummer Boy. It's a totally charming animated puppet version of the Christmas song about the little boy with "no gift for the King." Greer Garson narrates and Teddy Eccles provides the boy's voice. The Vienna Choir Boys sing Christmas carols. (REPEAT)

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — The Storefront Lawyers repeats its premiere episode. This is the one in which Robert Foxworth, Sheila Larken and David Arkin take on the case of an old, dispossessed homeowner who has apparently committed a senseless murder. Dean Jagger plays the murderer with Carmen Mathews as his wife.

7:30-8 Channel 11-9 — Room 222 tells the story of Mel Wertz's big decision — music or education? Mel is a pupil who wants to be a teacher. For fun, he's part of a rock group and now it looks like the group — The Nickel-Plated Toothpick — is on its way. But that means he'll be away from school a lot.

10:30-11:30 Channel 2 — Some cliché characters are on hand at the Medical Center, with a different kind of problem. Stefanie Powers, back from Mexico with a gangrenous leg, is treated by Gary Lockwood, a young doctor who looks more like a hippie. His unorthodox appearance alienates the girl's father (Dana Elcar) and a stiff-necked doctor (Andrew Duggan). But Chad Everett is in his corner.

8-9 Channel 5 — Kraft Music Hall airs part two of "Love and Marriage," with Alan King, Michele Lee, Stiller and Meara, Nancy Walker and James Coco.

Green Bay Symphony On TV Christmas Day

The Green Bay Symphony Orchestra will present a special holiday concert in color on Christmas Day. The telecast will originate from Green Bay West Auditorium from 8 to 9 p.m. Oleg Kovelanko is the conductor. The program includes a Milhaud overture, the Concerto for Viola and Orchestra in B Minor by Handel, the Czardas from Die Fledermaus by Strauss, and Shostakovich's Fourth Movement from his Symphony No. 5.

BOB HOPE 20TH ANNUAL OVERSEAS TOUR

Comedian Bob Hope, with members of his troupe around him, waves goodbye at Van Nuys Airport just before taking off Monday on his 20th annual Christmas tour to American military camps and installations overseas. A surprise Santa Claus in the person of Jack Benny stopped by to say goodbye and to pose with the troupe. Singer-dancer Lola Falana is behind Benny and just in front of him is Gloria Loring. Britisher to Speak On Victorian Glass At Oshkosh Museum

OSHKOSH — Hugh Wakefield of London's Victoria and Albert Museum will discuss Victorian Glass at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Oshkosh Public Museum. Mr. Wakefield has been on the staff of the Victoria and Albert Museum since 1948 and is responsible for most of its acquisitions in the field of modern decorative arts. He has written extensively on glass and ceramics, including "Nineteenth Century British Glass" (1961) and "Victorian Pottery" (1962). Besides lecturing in his home country he has given papers at international congresses in Europe.

This lecture is sponsored jointly by the museum and the Oshkosh Fine Arts Association. Admission is free.

Last night your friends and neighbors, young and old, had a wonderful time at the movies!

They laughed. They cried. They sat on the edge of their seats as the fury of a tornado swept across the screen. They thrilled to the magnificent panorama of the Grand Tetons, and cheered as a courageous family named the Tanners stood together against every challenge of an untamed land.

Your friends and neighbors had a wonderful time at the movies... the motion picture they saw will be yours to enjoy in early 1971.

Eggnog Goes With Fruitcake Bonbons

Lots of young marrieds are going to be celebrating their first Christmas together this year, and lots of young cooks will be looking for easy ways to celebrate Open House.

Here are two wonderful ways to offer hospitality — with a big batch of Fruitcake Bonbons and a bowl of Colonial Eggnog.

Fruitcake Bonbons have that real Christmas-y flavor of candied fruit and the luscious, natural sweetness of old-fashioned molasses.

If you've priced ready-made Christmas fruitcake, you know how expensive this item can be. Our recipe makes five to six dozen Fruitcake Bonbons, enough to set up for your entire Open House season. Everybody knows that homemade goodies are thrifter, taste better, look great.

The authentic Colonial Eggnog features two items that the Colonies got from the West Indies — rum and molasses.

Authentic, old-fashioned molasses still comes from the West Indies. It is not a by-product of sugar-making but is produced solely for its own sweet self. That makes it sweeter than other molasses. And it makes it very pure with no preservatives added, or any chemicals in its composition.

So come one, come all. Use these great Christmas recipes to make Open House a delight to all your friends. FRUITCAKE BONBONS
 1/2 cup molasses
 1/2 cup water
 1 package (15 ounces) raisins
 1 jar (1 pound) mixed candied fruit
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 3/4 cup sugar
 3 eggs
 1 cup plus 2 table-

An Open House that doesn't break the budget features homemade Fruitcake Bonbons rich with Grandma's Old-Fashioned Molasses flavor, and a Colonial Eggnog.

spoons sifted all-purpose flour
 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 1/4 teaspoon allspice
 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
 1/4 cup orange juice or rum
 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 Blend together molasses and water in a large, deep saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until mixture comes to a boil. Add raisins, bring to a boil again. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in candied fruit. Reserve. Cream together butter and sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Sift together flour, soda and spices; add to butter mixture alternately with orange juice. Add molasses-fruit mixture and chopped nuts; mix well. Line 1 1/4-inch cupcake pans with paper cups. Spoon in fruitcake mixture. If desired, garnish with pecan half or additional candied fruit. Bake in a 325 degree F. oven 25 to 30 minutes. Cool before storing.

1/4 cup molasses
 1/4 to 1 cup rum
 3 cups milk
 1 pint heavy cream, divided
 Nutmeg

Beat eggs and molasses in a bowl. Stir in rum, milk and 1/2 pint of the cream. Chill. When ready to serve, pour into punch bowl. Whip remaining cream and spoon over top. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Recipe makes 12 half-cup servings.

COFFEE NOG

Add 2 tablespoons instant coffee to eggs. Beat until dissolved, then stir in molasses.

First Lady Offers Preview Of Holidays With Nixons

BY FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon family Christmas dinner will include the traditional turkey, but the President won't do the carving.

"Dick doesn't like to carve—that's not one of his things," Mrs. Nixon said today as she discussed holiday plans at the Christmas-decorated White House.

The Nixons have plenty of traditions about Christmas, the First Lady said.

"We all have stockings," even the pet dog, she reported, laughing. "That's the most fun of all." Through the years Nixon friends have knitted Christmas stockings with names for each member of the family, Mrs. Nixon said.

The major effort of decorating the formal rooms of the White House was completed

Monday with glittering trees, garlands of greenery, holly, mistletoe, poinsettias and gay, red velvet bows twinkling lights and bright Christmas tree bulbs.

The Nixons' family tree—only about one-third the size of the big tree in the blue room—is a Scotch Pine that the Nixons hoped to start trimming that night. Mrs. Nixon said they have favorite ornaments that they have treasured through the years.

Traditionally the Nixons exchange gifts Christmas morning. Mrs. Nixon said she's done all her shopping, taken care of in an unobtrusive one-day trip to some Washington stores.

Although hosting a number of parties for Congress, officials, staff and press, Mrs. Nixon said there are no special parties for Nixon friends. Some close friends, she explained, will be among the guests at a "Christmas Evening in the White House," with television star David Frost Friday night.

Will Stay Home

This is the first year the Nixons have stayed in the White House through both Christmas and New Years, and Mrs. Nixon said there was no special plan for a New Year's Eve party. "We never make big plans for New Year's Eve," the President's wife explained.

Mrs. Nixon said Christmas dinner was set for 1:00 p.m. so members of the White House staff "will be home with their families for the rest of the day."

Holiday visits to Florida or California were being passed up, Mrs. Nixon said, because

Aglow With Lights, the White House Christmas tree provides a backdrop for First Lady Pat Nixon. The 20-foot white spruce which occupies the Blue Room of the Executive Mansion was grown in Merrillan, Wis. (AP Wirephoto)

"My husband is very busy" And, she added, "we love to share the White House with all the thousands of people" who come to visit at Christmas time.

Mrs. Janet King To Head COM

Concerned Outagamie Mothers (COM) have announced the election of officers for the coming year. Mrs. Janet King was named president, Mrs. Elayne Lastofka, vice president; Mrs. Twilla Collins, treasurer and Mrs. Jacqueline Wagner, secretary.

Recognition as founders of the group which stresses incentives and rights for welfare mothers, was given past president, Mrs. Delores Seely and past secretary, Mrs. Mary Drephal.

COM will hold its next meeting Jan. 12.

Decorate a Safety Tree Where Youngsters Play

Hang it high. Cover it up. Make it edible.

These simple safety decoration rules apply if your Christmas tree area will attract your own growing children or the neighbor's small fry.

Nothing is more attractive to the diaper and toddler sets than bright lights and shimmering ornaments. As any mother knows, a little one's first impulse is to grab what glimmers, then eat what he grabs.

Tree conservation and safety expert Roy Halvorson prescribes a safety check to make certain that your holiday season is free from tragedy.

Make Safety Check

The fire hazard can be avoided with an ounce of prevention. Be certain that the tree you purchase is fire-resistant. Some "live" green or flocked trees bear such tags, as do some of the synthetics.

Inspect all cords for frayed wires before stringing Christmas lights. And wrap the tree base in fireproof paper cotton-like materials only.

Avoid the danger of tipping with a sturdy stand that is built to withstand pressure from all angles (stands with right angle cross timbers leave alternate angles unbraced). If you favor tinsel ropes, make sure they do not serve as "handles" that can be used by youngsters to pull the tree over.

The lure of the tree may pique baby's interest in the light plug. Make certain the socket is well behind the tree and, if practical, anchored by electrician's tape. Also, make certain all decorations located within the child's reach are non-toxic and are otherwise harmless if swallowed.

Watch Dangers

For example, angel hair, a spun fiberglass product, can be dangerous. The same applies to tree base papers with dyes that bleed and miniscule glass bulbs that are small enough for baby to fit them in his mouth. Keep these out of reach.

For a worry-free Christmas season, practical mothers will be inclined to set the family tree on a table and out of baby's reach, Halvorson says. This is an excellent solution, but the homemaker is cautioned to avoid use of a tablecloth which extends over the table edge low enough that it can be reached from below.

If a floor tree is the tradition in your home, hang ropes high, reserving the lower branches for plastic ornaments (or harmless homemade concoctions) that can safely be chewed upon. Before Santa arrives, locate your toddler's favorite toys near the tree to divert his attention away from that "delicious" electric wiring and those "tasty" glass bulbs.

Above are spirited specialties such as preserves fashioned from ready-mades with a fillup of liquor added and the chocolate Christmas torte with a mint filling and chocolate frosting. Other suggestions are the coffee bars and balls, coffee-butterscotch fudge and walnut paste and coffee-rum cookies.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

There's a Christmas bonanza at hand and it's today's collection of recipes designed for gift giving without fuss or extra work at all. It's as exciting a collection ever discovered in pre-Christmas mood when any good cook worth her salt and recipe file hankers to send out remembrances from her own kitchen.

These recipes answer the problem of time as the days whiz closer to the holidays with too many things to do in too few minutes to do them.

The word is convenience! Plus a little ingenuity! Take a jar of fruit preserves already prepared and stacked on supermarket shelves. Add an exciting, tantalizing flavor in the form of compatible spirits for a magnificent "homemade" delicacy. Orange marmalade takes on richer flavor with an undertone of Scotch whiskey stirred into it. Cherry preserves become festive with a capital "F" when gin is added. Just a touch . . . never too much. Follow the recipe for Spirited Preserves.

Then there's the sensational six-layer chocolate torte that starts a-building with a package of devil's food cake mix. It's layered with minty flavored filling (creme de menthe) . . . the batter becomes glamorous with a hint of creme de cacao . . . the frosting is rich, luscious chocolate, its flavor heightened with a dash of rum.

Another new idea is to use cookie dough from the refrigerator counters in various forms and create such goodies as Cherry Almond Swirls, reminiscent of Old-World marzipan, Candied Orange Bars have chewy bits of candied orange slices, dates and nuts layered between slices of cookie dough before being baked.

These make marvelous gifts along with the collection of coffee sweets that will delight any friend, relative or neighbor. These are magnificent recipes because they are so easy and yet so difficult. And don't forget to try the Gumdrops, Jewel cookies, fun to make and delightful to eat.

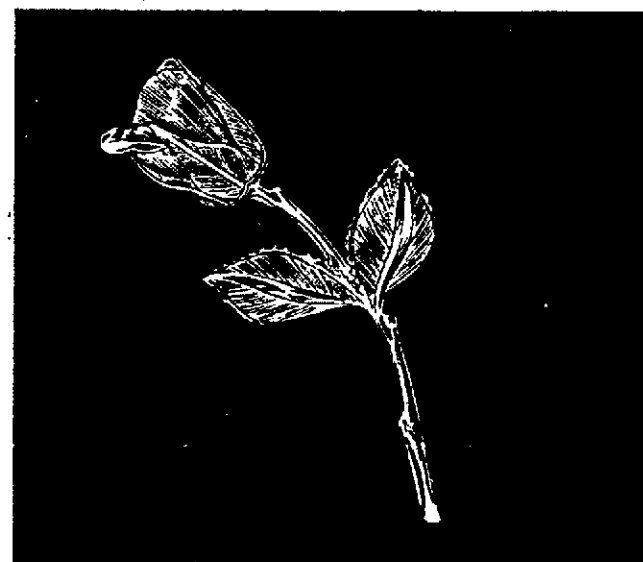

Be sure to make enough for company at home during the holidays as well as for some of Music, an appreciation for sound, can be a lifelong friend for children. With a little effort, adults can create in children an awareness and desire to experience music, says Lois Klessig, child development instructor at the University of Wisconsin.

Singing and music is a form of free expression. Let children sing while they work and play.

Create Own Music
Children can learn about music by creating their own. Musical instruments are easily made by filling pop-top cans, to different levels with sand and then taping the hole. When shaken they sound like maracas. Pop bottles can be filled with varying levels of water so that when the child blows over the top or taps the side of the bottle with a spoon he can create various musical tones.

Bells with an octave range are available for use in teaching children to recognize tone changes and to play simple songs. They can be color coded to match the notes in a line of music. "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" and "Mary Had a Little Lamb" are two simple and familiar songs to learn.

Another way for children to experience tone changes is to allow them to hit hollow and solid objects with a stick. They also can experiment with different materials such as metal, wood and plastic to compare differences.

A marching band made up of drums, rhythm sticks, tambourines, bells, triangles and other simple instruments which don't require extensive training is enjoyable to most pre-schoolers.

You don't need to be a "good" singer to teach youngsters to sing. Enthusiasm and interest are the important things to children. Off-key singing won't injure a child's appreciation for music. Children naturally sing at a higher key than adults, but it doesn't hurt if you sing lower.

Record Back-up
If you're self conscious about singing alone, use records to back you up. Let the children join in as they learn the song. Many four and five-year-olds like to perform for others, so let them lead songs.

Simple songs can be made up about what children are doing. Children enjoy background music that they can tune in when they want it and to provide music for their own singing.

There is a wealth of children's records on the market. Some outstanding records are done by Pete Seeger, Burl Ives, the Babysitters and Ella Jenkins. Often these records are of the sing along variety children love.

Besides children's records, youngsters need to hear all types of music from rock to classical to help develop a growing awareness of music.

Parents and Children

Questions to Ask When Your Child Is Admitted to a Hospital

I happened to be present when a friend's pre-school child was recently admitted to a hospital. He suffered from pneumonia. The little boy lived, but his parents had a difficult recovery. Due to overcrowding, insufficient funds or staff, but more often because of sheer bureaucratic wrong-headedness, many, though not all of today's public and private hospitals are in a sorry state. Especially if you bring an ill child to a hospital, you are likely to be needlessly intimidated or frightened.

Most of our hospitals like to maintain the myth that we in the U.S. receive medical care that is superior to that available in all other countries. It just isn't true. But you can make sure that your child receives the best that is available and to which is entitled by refusing to take "no" for an answer.

Don't let anyone in a hospital bully you or your child. Insist that you receive answers to the following questions and that your requests are heeded. If whoever processes your child's admission can't or refuses to answer you, demand to speak to the director of hospital admissions, to your doctor, to the head nurse and finally to the director or administrative head of the hospital, in that order. If you persist you'll get all the answers and your child will get all the help hospitals pretend, but often fail to deliver.

1. If the children's section of the hospital is not overcrowded, insist to be allowed to stay overnight with your hospitalized pre-school child.

2. Insist that your child's nurse, the nurse on the ward, or a resident doctor take down in writing the following particulars: Your child's medical history, any known drug reactions or allergies, food preferences or dislikes, bowel habits, special nick-names or words to which he responds, special treatment that he normally expects at home, like a favorite doll or blanket at bed-time, that might help him adjust to hospital routine and his recovery.

3. Ask for a printed form or written instructions regarding daily and weekend visiting hours.

4. Insist on having the diagnosis of your child's illness explained to you in simple, non-medical terms. Have projected operations or treatment detailed for you.

You are entitled to know how serious your child's condition is, how long he is likely to require hospitalization and what arrangements you might have to make to adjust your home and family routine to your ill child's needs.

5. Ask for a written listing of books, toys, foods, clothing and other essentials that might help your child's adjustment to the hospital and his recovery.

Hospitals, of course, are not hotels. A parent does not have the right to interfere with the legitimate routine required for proper medical and nursing care. But at the same time you should know that quite a few hospital practices and rules are smoke screens for callousness and inefficiency.

Arnold Arnold's booklet, "Safety Rules for Parents and Children," written especially for readers of this column, covers the whole field of home, playground, car, toy and play safety measures for children from babyhood to adolescence. Mr. Arnold's rules are brief, easy to follow, accurate and all-inclusive. A must for every parent, babysitter, teacher and childcare worker. Send 20 cents and a large (No. 10), self-addressed, stamped envelope to Arnold Arnold, Dept. B, c/o this newspaper.

species — maybe you ought to think pink

For a holiday egg dish to serve with festive pink Lancers, try this unusual recipe brought back from Nigeria and just published in "The African Cookbook" by Bea Sandler (World, 1970, $6.50). These nutritious bean-shrimp-egg cakes make a main course, requiring only a salad and a glass of wine for an attractive lunch or supper.

PANCAKE OMELETS
1 pound pea beans
2 tablespoons salt
½ pound fresh tomatoes, cut in ¼-inch cubes
½ pound yellow onions, finely chopped
1 pound cooked shrimp, cut in ¼-inch pieces
¼ teaspoon black pepper
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper or less to taste
6 large eggs, beaten lightly
½ cup peanut oil, or other vegetable oil

Soak beans and cook slowly with one tablespoon salt until tender. Put through food mill or sieve and combine with all remaining ingredients except oil. Heat oil in large skillet. Drop in heaping tablespoons of omelet mixture, which will spread out like a pancake. Turn when bottom is brown and firm. Recipe makes six to eight servings of two pancakes each.

WINE On the Table

By William Clifford

Last week I went to a testing of table wines from Portugal, and what do you think I found?

Good wines, of course. Befitting the fact that Portugal is very important in viticulture, producing about three-quarters as much wine as we do with less than 5 per cent of our population.

I tasted full-bodied red wines, very light white wines, and last but really first, pink wines. Everywhere I looked there were pink wines — more than 20 of them, both still and sparkling. Half the wines in the room seemed to be roses.

The two best-selling imported wines in America are both Portuguese pinks, and to some extent this tasting was a case of every producer trying to climb on the bandwagon. But I think it was more than that.

You don't generally win wide popularity unless you've got something inherently good to sell. The top-selling Lancers rose, for example, is carefully made from a noble variety of red grape, the Periquita of Setubal, which also accounts for Portugal's best red wines. It has never been grafted but grows on its own roots in the favorable Portuguese climate.

Part of the success of Lancers and other pink wines comes from the fact that they are not too tart for average palates and beginning wine-drinkers. Also from the widespread feeling that pink goes with everything.

This notion contains an element of truth, but it isn't true that the pinks go best with everything. The Portuguese think their excellent roses go best with dishes of poultry and eggs, and here I agree.

So if you haven't yet decided what to serve with the Christmas bird — turkey, chicken, duck, or whatever Butter-Nut Coffee Christmas Club gifts are on the way.

• The Butter-Nut Coffee Christmas Club is a worthwhile activity whose main purpose is to provide gifts to children residing in institutions who might not otherwise be remembered at Christmas time.

• Qualified homes of the Club's selection, located in the principal Butter-Nut Coffee marketing area, receive enough gifts so that every child may have one. The distribution of the gifts to children is directed by the home's administration. Currently, gifts, candy and nuts will be sent to approximately 385 child care institutions having an estimated population of over 40,000 children.

• The work of the Butter-Nut Coffee Christmas Club has continued since it was founded in 1937 by the people who then marketed Butter-Nut Coffee.

• People throughout the principal area of distribution for Butter-Nut Coffee may encourage this activity by forwarding Butter-Nut Coffee Christmas Club certificates placed in cans of ground coffee, the labels from jars of instant coffee, or the inner seals from freeze dried coffee, to the Butter-Nut Coffee Christmas Club, Ninth and Jones Streets, Omaha, Nebraska 68102.

• The receipt by the Club of certificates, labels and innerseals from Butter-Nut Coffee is an indicator of the general interest and approval as plans are drawn up for next year's activity. They have no monetary value, nor are they used to determine the value of gifts, or the number of children to whom gifts are sent.

• No contributions of money or property are solicited or accepted by the Butter-Nut Coffee Christmas Club.

• Consumers are welcome to indicate their interest in a particular child care institution; however, this is not necessary since all qualified homes of the Club's selection receive toys, candy, and nuts.

Pinecones and glitter, paper and gingerbread men, ribbons and ornaments—they were just some of the materials that inspired whole families to create Christmas decorations Sunday at the First Congregational Church, United Church of Christ. Little hands and big ones working together opened new vistas of understanding in the spirit of the holiday season. The Ailing House

Try Light Shade of Stain

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I wish to finish some luan mahogany flush doors and would like to keep them as light as possible. What should I apply? — Clinton, Mass.

A: At the paint store, get the very lightest shade of stain carried. As a finish, I suggest top quality clear varnish. Apply in thin coats, and allow ample drying time between them.

Q: Where can I obtain plans for building wood radiator covers? — Auburn, Mass.

A: Write: Easi-Bild Patterns, Briarcliff Manor, New York 105100; Dept. of Public Information, Popular Mechanics, 575 Lexington Ave., New York 10510; Dept. of Public wood isn't green!

Our good friend Mr. J. Weddell Kerr, Fremont, Ohio, writes: "Many lamp shades are made of heavy paper. Many are decorated on the outside, so no light shines through. Reflection and light come from above or below."

"I had two lamps of this type and painted the inside of the shades with white ceiling paint. It increased the amount of light from each lamp by 100 per cent."

Serving on the committee were Mrs. Gordon Kitzmiller and Mrs. Robert Abendroth.

Elected were committees for the year. Mrs. Carl Rehfeldt and Mrs. Charles Thompson will have charge of the picnic and Mrs. Ernest Mueller, Mrs. Marinus Van Weil and Mrs. Frank Koch, 1971 Christmas party.

His Snoring Now Music to Her Ears

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've read several letters in your column from women who are miserable because their husbands snore. Please let me tell my story. It might help them.

For years I was annoyed because my husband snored. At times I got so mad I jabbed him with an elbow or nudged him in the back with a knee. One night I was awakened suddenly by a crash of thunder. It was so quiet in the house you could have heard a pin drop. My husband was still and silent. Not only was there no snoring — there was no breathing. I was frightened out of my wits. A thousand thoughts rushed through my mind. I was sure he had a heart attack and died. Just as I reached over to touch him he took a deep breath and started to snore again. Ever since that night I have ceased to be irritated by his snoring. In fact, it's music to my ears. — Huntingdon, Pa.

Dear Ann: What a sweet story. Thanks for sharing!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell parents never to leave a child locked in a car because it is convenient. I would like to recite three incidents which I witnessed this past summer.

A family from out of state left an 18-month-old child in a locked car while they enjoyed a tourist attraction. The temperature had risen to nearly 100 degrees. Inside the car it was at least twenty degrees hotter. The child was virtually "cooked." She died a few hours later.

The following week, as I was driving home, the car ahead of me stopped suddenly to avoid hitting a youngster who was toddling across the street. (He was wearing only a diaper.) I got out of my car to help the astonished driver rescue the child from the busy traffic. His mother came running toward us, hysterical. She had left the boy in a parked car while she went to make a telephone call. He had managed to get out "somehow."

Several days later a family vacationing at a lake resort left a three-year-old boy in a station wagon. The child pulled the brake and the car rolled down the hill into the lake. The boy's father saw it just in time to grab a rock, break the rear window of the car and pull the child out — seconds before the car sank in 40 feet of water.

While two of these three incidents had happy endings, hundreds of children are killed or seriously injured because their parents were thoughtless. Do what you can to help these youngsters stay alive, Ann. — J.W.H., Rapid City, S.D.

Dear J.W.H.: I'm printing your letter and that should help. Thanks for writing. I'd like to add that even though the incidents you related were summer-type, similar hazards exist in the winter as well.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What's wrong with telephoning a boy. My mother thinks it is terrible. The guy I go with is a freshman at Northwestern University. He enjoys a nap in the afternoon after his 2 p.m. class. He has asked me to phone him every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4:40 to wake him up.

My mother says it is not nice for girls to call boys. I think she's living in another century. What do you think? — Ding-A-Ling

Dear Ding: I think you ought to buy your boyfriend an alarm clock for Christmas.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits — the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It. Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

the most magnificent gift foods ever evolved.

CHOCOLATE CHRISTMAS TORTE
1 pkg. (18 1/2 oz.) devil's food cake mix
1/4 cup creme de cacao
1 cup water (approx.)
2 eggs
Mint Filling
Chocolate Frosting
2 tablespoons chopped nuts
Grease and flour a jelly roll pan (15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1 inches). Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Empty cake mix into large mixing bowl. Add creme de cacao and enough water to make up the full amount of water specified on the package. Add eggs and prepare cake batter as package directs. Turn into prepared pan and with a spatula spread evenly from center to ends. Bake 25 to 30 minutes. Cool for 10 minutes; remove from pan. Cool cake completely.
Cut cake crosswise into three equal pieces. Carefully split each piece in half with a sharp serrated knife to make six layers. Place the first layer cut side up on serving plate; gently spread with mint filling just to edges. Top with second layer, cut side down, and spread with filling. Repeat with next three layers. Top with sixth layer. Let torte stand until filling is firm. Cover top and sides with chocolate frosting. Sprinkle chopped nuts down the center. Refrigerate before serving.

To freeze, remove chilled cake from serving plate and enclose tightly in plastic wrap. To serve, cut in half-inch slices, then cut each slice in half. Recipe makes about 40 servings.
MINT FILLING
1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
3 ounces cream cheese, softened
1 pound confectioners sugar, sifted
1 egg slightly beaten
2 tablespoons creme de menthe
Cream butter and cream cheese until fluffy. Gradually add sugar, alternating with beaten egg and then creme de menthe. Beat until smooth and fluffy and of a good spreading consistency.
CHOCOLATE FROSTING
4 ounces unsweetened chocolate
3 tablespoons butter
1 pound confectioners sugar, sifted
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 egg
2 tablespoons rum or Bourbon
2 tablespoons milk (approx.)

Melt chocolate with butter. Combine confectioners sugar and salt in a large bowl. Stir in melted chocolate and butter. Beat in egg and rum and enough milk to make good spreading consistency. Beat until fluffy.
SPIRITED PRESERVES
Combine in saucepan, 1 jar (12 oz.) preserves with 3 tablespoons liquor. Bring just to a boil over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Spoon into decorative jars or crocks which have been rinsed with boiling water. Cover with lids or plastic wrap. Keep refrigerated. Suggested combinations: raspberry preserves with rum; whole cherry preserves with gin; orange marmalade with Scotch; apricot preserves with Bourbon. If more pronounced flavor is desired, add an extra tablespoon of liquor.
CHERRY ALMOND SWIRLS
1 roll (18 oz.) Refrigerated Sugar, Butter-scotch Nut or Chewy Almond Slice 'N Bake Cookies
1 can (8 oz.) almond paste
1 cup chopped candied cherries
2 tablespoons corn syrup
Roll out cookie dough between sheets of waxed paper to form 12x8-inch rectangle. (For ease in rolling, allow cookie dough to soften to room temperature.) In small mixing bowl, combine remaining ingredients. Shape this mixture into 12-inch roll. Remove top sheet of waxed paper from cookies dough. Place almond roll on cookie dough; mold sides of cookie dough around almond roll, removing all waxed paper. Wrap cookie roll and chill 2 hours or until firm enough to slice. Cut into quarter-inch slices; place on ungreased cookie sheets 2 inches apart. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 20 minutes.

(Cookies will be puffy when done.) Cool 2 minutes before removing from cookie sheet. Recipe makes 48 cookies.
CANDIED ORANGE BARS
1 1/2 cups cut candy orange slices or gum drops
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 roll (18 oz.) Refrigerated Sugar, Butterscotch Nut or Chewy Almond Slice 'N Bake Cookies
Powered sugar glaze, if desired
In medium saucepan, combine ingredients except nuts and cookies. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally until mixture boils and thickens. Stir in nuts; cool slightly.
Slice cookie dough into quarter-inch slices; place two-thirds of the slices in ungreased 13x9-inch baking pan. Press cookie dough over bottom of pan (for ease in pressing allow to soften to room temperature). Spoon cooked mixture evenly over cookie dough. Crumble remaining cookie dough over filling. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes until deep golden brown. Cool; if desired, drizzle with powdered sugar glaze. Cut into 36 bars.
MOCHA BALLS
1 large box vanilla wafers
2 cups confectioners' sugar
3/4 cup finely chopped nutmeats
2 tablespoons cocoa
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/4 cup double-strength, cold coffee Crush vanilla wafers into fine crumbs (there should be 2 cups). Add sugar and mix well. Stir in nutmeats and cocoa. Add cream and coffee. Mix well and shape into balls about 3/4-inch in diameter. Chill. (Do not bake.) Makes about 4 dozen.

COBANA BARS
1 1/4 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons instant coffee
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon lemon extract
3 eggs, well beaten
1 cup mashed bananas (fully ripe)
1/2 cup broken walnut meats
Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and instant coffee. Cream shortening and sugar. Add lemon extract and eggs. Mix well. Add flour mixture alternately with mashed bananas. Stir in walnuts. Bake in greased pan, 8 x 12 x 2 inches, in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Cool in pan and cut into bars 4 inches long and 1 inch wide. Frost with plain confectioners' sugar icing and sprinkle with chopped walnuts. Recipe makes 24 bars.
COFFEE RUM COOKIES
2 cups sifted flour
2 tablespoons instant coffee
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 egg, well-beaten
1 teaspoon imitation rum extract
Mix and sift flour, instant coffee, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Cream shortening and butter, add sugars gradually, while creaming; beat until light; add egg and rum extract. Add sifted dry ingredients; blend thoroughly. Wrap in waxed paper or aluminum foil. Chill several hours. Roll out a small amount of dough at a time about one-eighth-inch thick, on lightly floured board. Cut with cookie cutter. Decorate with nutmeats, if desired. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in 400 degree oven, 8 to 10 minutes. Recipe makes 36 cookies.

Jewel Box Cookies

Note: Dough may be formed into a roll, wrapped in wax paper or aluminum foil, chilled overnight, then sliced thin and baked, as wanted.
COFFEE WALNUT TURKISH PASTE
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups strong coffee beverage
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
Mix gelatin, sugar and salt in saucepan. Add coffee and bring to boil. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Lower heat and simmer 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Add vanilla. Chill until consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in walnuts. Rinse loaf pan in cold water, then pour gelatin mixture into pan. Place in cool place, not refrigerator, and let stand overnight. Loosen candy around edges of pan with wet, sharp knife. Pull out on board lightly dusted with granulated sugar. Cut into cubes. Recipe makes about 40 cubes.
GUMDROP JEWEL COOKIES
3/4 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups flaked coconut
1/2 cup milk
2 cups enriched self-rising flour
1 cup small spice gumdrops, halved
Cream together sugar and shortening until light and fluffy. Stir in eggs and vanilla extract; beat well. Blend in coconut and milk. Add flour all at once to creamed mixture, stirring until blended; mix in gumdrops. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls, 2 inches apart, onto greased baking sheet. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes, or until lightly browned. Cool completely on wire rack. Store in tightly covered container.
(Note: Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop. If ordinary flour used, add baking powder and salt.)

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

Two teams will represent North America in the 1971 world championship to be held next spring in Taipei, Taiwan. The Aces, defending their title, will be one. The other team consists of four Los Angeles players who won a series of elimination matches that involved five of the continent's leading teams.
The winners were Lew Mathe, Don Krauss, Richard Walsh and John Swanson. The Mathe team selected Edgar Kaplan of New York City and Norman Kay of Philadelphia, Pa., to join them for world championship play.
Observe Edgar Kaplan's exciting defense in today's hand, played in the elimination matches:

The bidding:
Kaplan found the unusual lead of the king of clubs. While not in accordance with any textbook table of leads, the lead of an unsupported honor in selected circumstances can be very effective. Let's examine Kaplan's reasoning.
The bidding had revealed that East had at least a five-card club suit, therefore East and West must hold at least 10 clubs between them. Surely Kay must have either the ace or the queen and the lead of the unsupported king could hardly lose a trick.
Next, Kaplan wanted to maintain flexibility for the defense. It would be easier to determine if East or West should lead to the second trick after the dummy was seen. If Kay did have the club ace, he could exercise a choice. If he wanted to lead, he could overtake the king. If not, he could allow Kaplan to hold the trick.
Finally, Kaplan wanted to place as much doubt as possible in declarer's mind concerning the division of the outstanding high cards between the defenders. He wasn't sure that he could gain, but he felt certain that he had little to lose.
Declarer followed to the lead of the club king with dummy's club deuce, and Kay allowed Kaplan to hold the trick. Kaplan shifted to the heart deuce.
Kaplan's foresight was about to pay off. Since declarer placed Kaplan with either the king-queen or ace-king of clubs, he played Kay for the heart ace as part of his values for an opening bid. Therefore, declarer played a low heart from dummy. Kay gathered in his heart queen, returned the suit to Kaplan's ace, and a third heart was led for Kay to ruff. Down one.
Kaplan was duly rewarded for his imaginative and deceptive defense. When he made his opening lead, he had no idea that future developments would prove so fortunate. However, he deserves full marks for laying the groundwork to collect whatever rewards lay in store for him.

PURE WATER, the first Non-Polluting detergent – ready to do something about phosphate pollution NOW!!!

Every heavy-duty laundry detergent now on the market in Wisconsin contributes to the serious problem of phosphate pollution. Except one. It's new. It's powerful. It's completely phosphate-free. Its name is Pure Water, the responsible detergent.

No, this isn't a move toward responsibility by the Big Three soap manufacturers. Pure Water heavy-duty laundry detergent is made by Clear Water Products, Inc., the brain child of two young Chicagoans. As chemical engineers they are concerned about the great price Americans think they have to pay for "cleaner, brighter, whiter washdays". They are convinced that this doesn't have to happen, that the phosphate-produced algae and scum in our rivers and streams is too high a price to pay for "whiter whites and brighter brights". They have developed Pure Water, The Responsible Detergent. Pure Water proves that pollution and cleaning power do not have to go hand in hand.

PURE WATER CONTAINS NO PHOSPHATES.

PURE WATER CONTAINS NO NTA, A PHOSPHATE SUBSTITUTE MADE FROM HYDROGEN CYANIDE.

PURE WATER CONTAINS NO ENZYMES, THOSE "NEW WASHDAY MIRACLES" THAT LAB TESTS PROVE MAKE LITTLE DIFFERENCE IN CLEANING POWER BUT CAN CAUSE SKIN IRRITATION.

PURE WATER IS 100% ACTIVE. YOU CAN USE HALF AS MUCH PER LOAD. MOST DETERGENTS CONTAIN AS MUCH AS 30% INACTIVE INGREDIENTS.

Yet tests prove that Pure Water cleans and brightens clothes as well as any heavy duty detergent now on the market in the Wisconsin area.

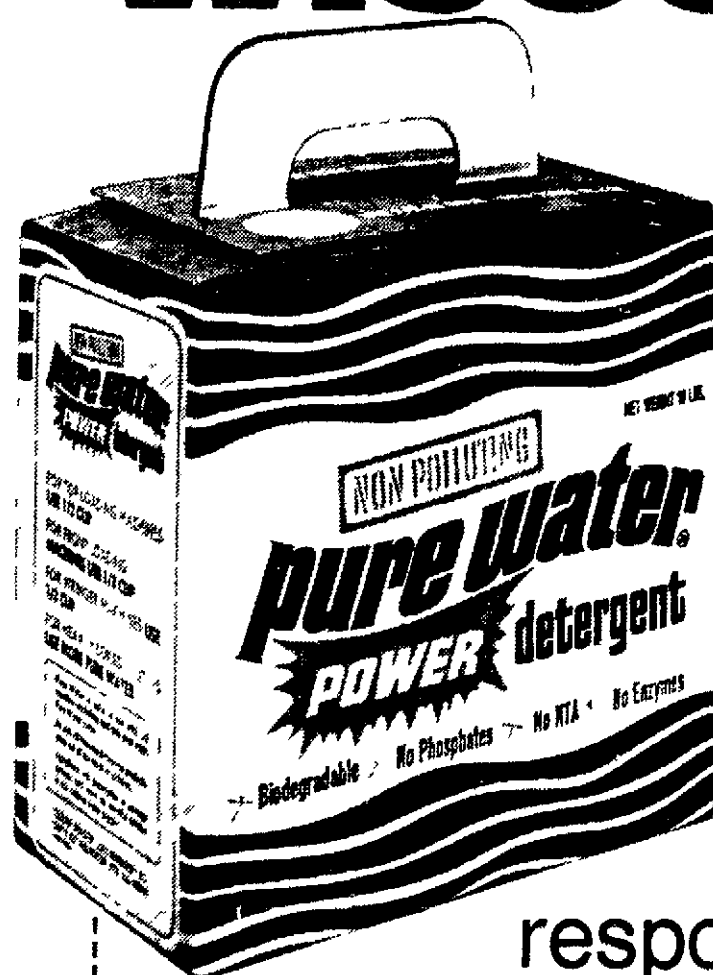

Why isn't Pure Water the leading detergent in the Wisconsin market? The answer is simple—simple economics. Last year the Big Three spent the major part of $300,000,000 for advertising. You've seen it all: Exploding washers. Well known pitchers and fading movie stars. Talking radios. Genis, Martians, and slice-of-life conversations over the back fence. All geared to woo you—they call you consumers—without telling you just what goes into all these "Washday miracles".

Pure Water has spent no money on advertising until now. We were too busy developing a superior product that cleans without polluting—a responsible detergent.

Can Pure Water be a success in the Wisconsin market? In many ways it's up to you. Billions of pounds of phosphates are pumped into the environment every year. We think it should stop. Pure Water is the first step.

For clean clothes and no pollution, ask for Pure Water, The Responsible Detergent.

Count Santa's Packages, Win Printing Press

BY CAPPY DICK

Count and color the Christmas gift packages Santa Claus has piled up in the picture!

If you send in a correct entry that is judged to be one of the five neatest and most today's contest the main awards are Superior Flash Printing Plants, each consisting of an all-metal rotary printing press, 200 pieces of movable rubber type, supplies of paper and ink, tools to be used in setting the type and running the press and a booklet of instructions and ideas for boys and girls to use in printing family menus, club membership cards, miniature newspapers and other novelties. The printing outfits are, manufactured by the Superior Marking Equipment Company specifically for boys and girls.

To enter the contest and try to win these awards, the first step is to count and color the packages in the picture above. Next, clip it out and paste it on paper. Print the number of packages beneath it, along with your name, age, address and Zip Code number. With paints, crayons or cutouts, add any decorations you consider neat and original.

Finally address the entry to Cappy Dick's Midweek Printing Press Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here and their awards will be sent to them by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Selected as the Centers on Silver Anniversary Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Russell and George Mikan have been named centers on the National Basketball Association's silver anniversary team.

Russell, who led the Boston Celtics to 11 NBA titles before retiring in 1969, was the only unanimous choice for the team in the voting by a panel of experts. He is the league's all-time rebounding leader with a total of 21,721.

Mikan, a 6-10 strongman, was the NBA's first great pivot man and led the Minneapolis Lakers to five titles in six seasons from 1949 to 1954.

Russell and Mikan join forwards Dolph Schayes, Paul Arizin, Bob Pettit and Joe Fuks who were named earlier. The guards will be announced Friday.

Boilermakers Fail To Recover After 1st Half Drought

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Tom Window connected on a driving layup in the closing seconds to give Kent State a 64-62 college basketball victory over Purdue Tuesday night.

Purdue missed 13 free throws and went six minutes without a field goal in the first half allowing the Flashes to forge a 34-25 margin at intermission.

The Boilermakers rallied in the second half, tying the score at 36-all and the two teams swapped leads 17 times until Winrow's winning field goal.

Purdue's William Franklin was the game's leading scorer with 22 points. Ruben Vance and Mike Foote led the visitors with 20 points each.

Kent State remained undefeated in three games while Purdue is 3-3.

Reds Get Greg Garrett

Angels Obtain Jim Maloney

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have traded their top hurler of the 1960s, Jim Maloney, to California in their second major deal with the Angels since late in 1969.

The Reds exchanged the 11-year veteran for 22-year-old left-hander Greg Garrett who registered a 5-6 record and 2.64 earned run average in 33 games in his first major league season in 1970.

Maloney, a fireballing right-hander, pitched three no-hitters, and posted a 134-81 mark and 3.20 ERA since joining the Reds in 1960. He was the only remaining member of the Reds team which won the 1961 National League pennant.

Suffering a ruptured Achilles tendon in an ankle early last the league football championship with an unbeaten season.

Now the same school is threatening to be as dominant on the basketball court as it was on the gridiron. Coach John Reinke's charges have breezed to four straight victories in CWC cage play, sweeping aside Marion, 79-51; Shiocton, 78-50; Wautoma, 90-50, and most recently Wittenberg-Birnwood, 81-54.

But if the first four league foes have been easy for the Bears, chances are Bonduel is in for a much rougher time in trying to subdue opponent No. 5 — namely, defending champion Little Chute.

Al Schmidt's Mustangs, runners-up in the conference with a 3-1 record, play host to the league-leaders Friday night as the spotlight game on the loop schedule. Other tilts send Shiocton (1-4) to Marion (2-2) and Wautoma (1-3) to Manawa (1-3). Wittenberg-Birnwood (3-2) played at Mosinee in a non-league battle Tuesday night.

Excellent Balance

Bonduel and Little Chute can both boast excellent balance heading into their early-season showdown. The Bears have five players currently averaging in double figures, and the Mustangs have four.

The top performer for Bonduel has been Mike Eisch, hitting at a 20-points-per-game clip — tied for second best in the conference. Other high Bear scorers include Mike Boettcher, 13.2; Jim Foreman, 12.0; Neil Boettcher, 11.5, and Jim Reinke, 11.0.

To counter, Little Chute can offer such standouts as Steve Mollen (18.0 average), Dick Hackel (17.5), Gary Van Handel (17.2), and Tim Fitzpatrick (14.5). Mollen's status for the Bonduel game is in question, however, since he missed Little Chute's last 78-53 rout of Wautoma with an injury.

The last time Bonduel and Little Chute cagers got together was on the tournament trail last year when the Bears knocked off the Mustangs, 76-67, in the Appleton East Regional.

Foreman had 11 points in that tilt as one of his team's leaders, while Eisch added nine and Jim Reinke three. Mollen hit 15 in the game for Little Chute, and Ben Pennings contributed two.

Statistically, there is little to choose between the two clubs. Bonduel has hit at an average of 82 points per game while allowing 51.2, and the Mustangs have connected at a 77.3 rate to their foes' 55.8 mark.

Marion has won its last two starts, spilling Little Chute, 63-62, and Manawa, 66-58, and will be favored to extend its streak against the invading Chiefs. Shiocton fell in two games last weekend, 92-59, to Little Chute, and 70-63, to Manawa.

Leading the way for Marion are Goodwin Peterson, averaging 20 points per game; Mike Daley, 14.0, and Mike Meyer, 12.5. Dick Clausen is the Chiefs' biggest threat with an 18-point scoring rate, and Mark Johnson and Jeff Johnson have added 10.8 and 10.0 averages, respectively.

Manawa's victory over Shiocton gives the Wolves momentum against Wautoma's Hornets. Kent Gehrke's 15-point average and Jim Hass' 13.2 lead the Wolves into action, while the Hornets have Joe Netzel (14.5), Paul Olson (13.2), and Jeff Raatz (13.0).

Rockford Event Opens Friday

LU's First Tourney Foe to Be Georgia Southwestern

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Some tough competition faces the Lawrence University basketball team when it competes in the second annual Rockford College Holiday Invitational Tournament this weekend.

Along with Lawrence and Rockford, Eureka College and Georgia Southwestern will be participating in the tourney. Last year, Augustana was the tourney champion, beating Rockford in the championship game.

Friday's opening pairings will have Rockford and Eureka meeting in the 7 p.m. first game, while Lawrence and Southwestern clash in the 8:30 nightcap. Friday's losers play in the consolation game at 7 p.m. Saturday with the championship between the winners at 8:30.

2 Bad Games Should Stir Up the Packers Emotionally, Says Dale

Post-Crescent News Service.

GREEN BAY — Will the Packers regroup?

This is the key question as they prepare for Sunday's 1970 swan song in Detroit against the admittedly awesome Lions.

Pride, that intangible but potent force which loomed large in their surge to championship heights only three years ago, obviously will have to carry them if there should be a revival.

That may seem insufficient to derail Detroit, certain to be inspired by an opportunity to crash the playoffs for the first time since 1957, but the Pack's Carroll Dale is quietly hopeful.

Thinks Like Champion

The gifted flanker, who still thinks and acts like a champion, pondered the upcoming assignment Tuesday and said, "We have to remember our first game with Detroit... and also that last one in Chicago."

If there is any need to refresh the memory, the Lions smothered our heroes, 40-0, in that Sept. 20 opener, which saw the Packers limited to a meager net of 129 yards and shut out for the first time since 1958.

And, of course, the Bears Sunday inflicted the most ignominious defeat upon the green and gold since that early misadventure, frisking the Pack for 338 air yards in a 35-17 victory.

"Two games like that to remember should be a big help in getting ready," Dale soberly observed. "They should stir us up emotionally... It's very mandatory for us to get ready for this game — we all have to live with ourselves in the off season."

"We have to be embarrassed after last week — the way we were emotionally — and we were definitely embarrassed after that first game."

Understandably, Carroll has no illusions about the task at hand.

"Detroit is probably as fine a team as there is in all of the National Football League right now, so it will be a great challenge... Right now, they've got as much momentum as any team in the league. Oakland had the Lions down, 14-0, and they came back to beat the Raiders, 28-14."

"If we aren't ready to play, we'll get beat 80-0, not 40-0," Dale said with matter-of-fact realism.

Pick Up Blitzes

Analyzing the problem that Detroit's redoubtable defense presents, he said, "The big thing you have to do is pick up their blitzes. They blitz a lot and they know what they're doing. They look a lot like the Bears in that respect — they

Late Shot Decides

Badgers' Comeback Bid Fails, 81-80

ATHENS, Ohio. (AP) — Craig Love's jump shot and Bobby Howell's theft nullified Wisconsin's comeback, and Ohio got away with an 81-80 basketball victory over the Badgers Tuesday night.

Wisconsin had been looking for its third consecutive victory over the Bobcats. But the hosts allowed the Badgers the lead only once in the second half, an 80-79 margin with 21 seconds left to play.

The Badgers had trailed by up to nine points before tying the score at 79-79 on Gary Watson's jump shot from a corner.

With 1:02 remaining, Ohio's Larry Hunter missed a free-throw and Wisconsin got the rebound. Watson was fouled, and it was his charity shot that put Wisconsin ahead.

Love, a 6-foot-8 senior, then put in his 12-foot turnaround jump shot with six seconds showing on the clock.

Lose Ball

The Badgers, with a few seconds left for a last gasp, lost the ball to Howell when he stole a pass which Clarence Sherrod had intended for Watson.

Wisconsin (3-2) commanded the rebounds, gathering 39 to Ohio's 35. The Badgers hit 51 per cent of their shots while Ohio (3-1) hit 48 per cent.

Sherrod led Wisconsin scoring with 23 points. Leon Howard had 18.

For Ohio, 7-foot-1 senior Kenney Kowall had 31 points, Howell had 21 and Love 15.

The Bobcats played without their top scorer, forward Todd Lalich, who is sidelined with a sprained ankle.

PACKER POTPOURRI

Squinting against the fading December light as the Packer team bus rolled toward Chicago's O'Hare Field late Sunday afternoon, Dave Bradley looked up from a study of the game statistics sheet to announce with something akin to wonder, "Hey, I made the stats today."

Dave Bradley

And, indeed, there it was for all to see. Bradley's name was listed in the "opponents' fumbles recovered" column, alongside that of teammate Alvin Matthews.

This may not seem like a major cause for rejoicing, particularly considering the Packers had just been man-handled by the Bears in Wrigley Field, but Bradley had legitimate reason to take heart.

It was in the nature of a breakthrough for the former Penn State guard, although not nearly as much of a one as the fact that he, at long last, had had a chance to operate from scrimmage.

"That's the first time I've played in two years," said Bradley, who relieved Bill Lueck at left guard late in the third period. "It's the first actual scrimmage I've been in since the 1969 College All-Star game, except for the second quarter of our first exhibition game against the New York Giants this year.

Durability Big Asset. "And that time, I played after I separated a shoulder on the second kickoff of the game," he dryly added. "I thought maybe it was a pinched nerve at the time—I'd had that a couple of times, a situation where your arm goes numb.

"That actually happened on our first kickoff return of the game. I was crossing to throw a block on the guard and landed on my elbow."

Ironically, durability was one of Bradley's chief attractions when the Packers tabbed him their No. 2 choice in the National Football League's '69 draft. But he has been continuously plagued with injury problems since graduating to the pro ranks.

"I pulled a hamstring in the

All-Star game against the Jets last year," he reported. "And, after I came to the Packers, I tore the same muscle in an exhibition game against the Bears and I was out for six weeks or so. I was up (on the roster) for a couple of games after that, but just on the special teams—no scrimmage at all.

"That was the first time I'd ever missed a game and I started playing midget football in the sixth grade. I played junior high school, college freshman football and three years of varsity at Penn State without getting hurt badly enough to sit out.

"It's the first time I'd ever sat on the bench and it got a little old last year," said Bradley, a highly regarded athlete who was a Sporting News All-American as a college senior. "And, as a result, it was a little tough to come back and play. . . . The only way you can play the offensive line in the pros is to play. You can't get it any other way . . . in practice or anywhere else.

"Timing Was Off" "It was really hard Sunday—my timing was way off. When you pull out on a sweep, you have to react to it by instinct, more or less. When you're not playing, you lose it. I felt rusty out there."

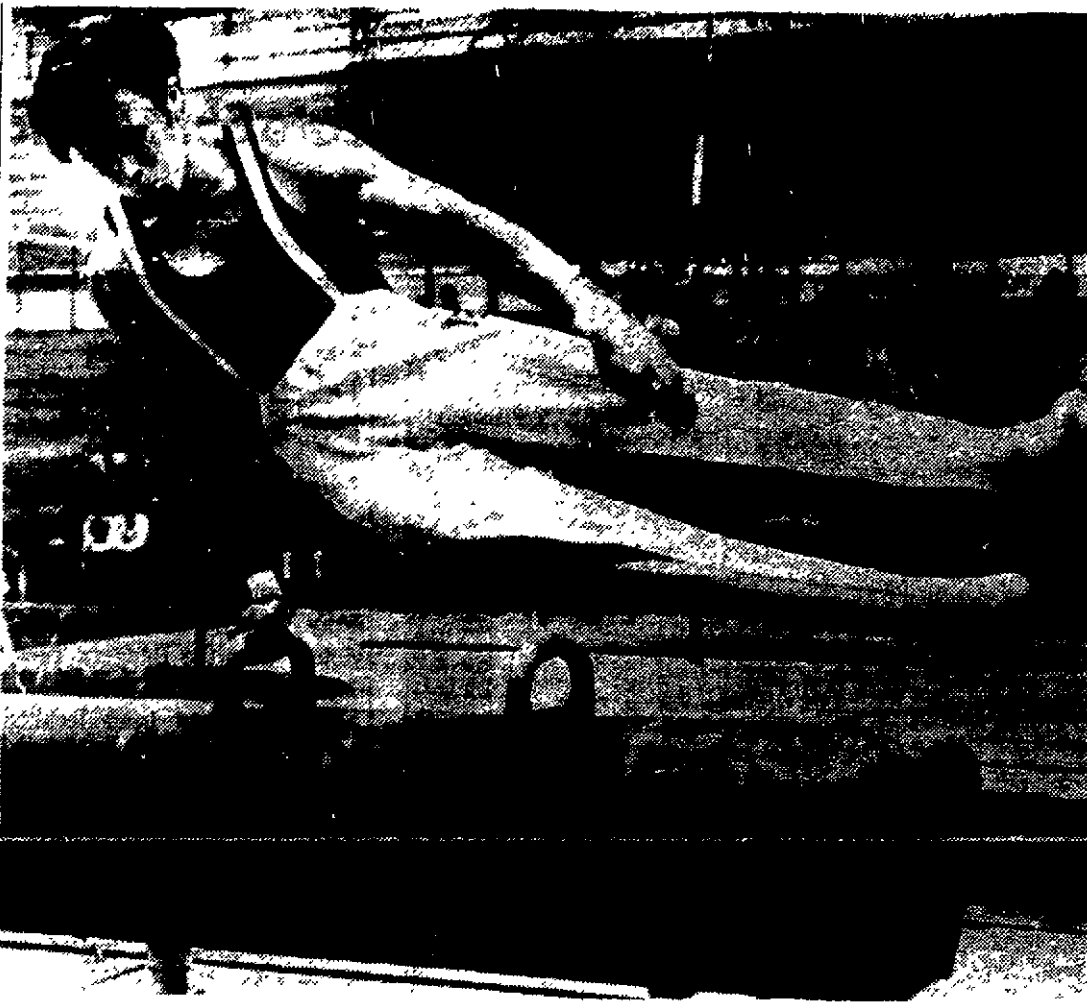

Bradley admits, however, that "it felt real good to get back in there. It played like I suppose you expect to play when you haven't played in two years. I hope I can play a little more from now on—like Sunday against Detroit—and next year."

Dave, who titillates his teammates in leisure moments with surprisingly faithful imitations of the omniscient Howard Cosell, added, "It'll be like starting over again next season. I feel I can play in the NFL—it's just a matter of getting experience."

Teammate Gale Gillingham, the Pack's offensive captain, seconds the motion. "Dave is going to be a heckuva player, whether he plays guard or tackle," he asserts.

The 6-foot-3½, 250-pound Bradley, a Burnham, Pa., native who says he now is planning to make his home in Green Bay, notes with appreciation, "I'm glad the Packers stuck with me for two years and gave me a chance to play."

Looking ahead to next Sunday's season finale, he soberly concluded, "I hope we can beat the Lions and finish up with a .500. A 7-7 record is not all that good but it sure sounds a lot better than 6-and-8."

Appleton East's Mike Maloney is gymnastics meet against Green Bay shown in action during Tuesday night's Preble. AHS-E won the meet.

Friday's Games:
Freedom at Reedsville
Valders at Hilbert
Mishicot at Wrightstown
Brillion at Denmark

Reedsville's Panthers took over sole possession of second place in the Olympian Conference race Tuesday night by downing Brillion, 64-57, on the Lions' court.

Reedsville now owns a 3-1 record, trailing front-running Valders by one game. Valders remained undefeated with a 5-3 home-floor trouncing of Denmark.

Freedom buried Wrightstown, 72-29, in the Irish gym, and Hilbert upended Mishicot, 41-37, at Mishicot.

Reedsville shot 49 per cent (28 for 57) from the floor in beating Brillion. The losers managed just 31 per cent (26-for-82).

Scott Schultz collected 18 points for the Panthers, and Elmer Dvorachek and John Kugle added 16 apiece. Brillion's Tom Schwahn took game honors with 27 markers, including 13 baskets in 15 attempts.

Valders pulled away from Denmark after taking a 24-20 halftime edge. The home forces outscored their foe, 16-6, in the third period, and won going away, with a 13-7 cushion in the final stanza.

Ken Larson's 16 points paced Valders, and mates Jim Pivonka and Lou Rusch contributed 14 each. Dan Karbon had 12 for Denmark and Dave Kempfert 10.

Freedom led Wrightstown, 17-5, at the end of the first quarter then outscored the winless Tigers, 22-0, in the second period for a 39-5 halftime bulge.

Pair Hit 14 The Irish, aided by a full-court press that yielded numerous turnovers, were topped in scoring by 14-point productions from Gary Hooyman and Tony Brockman. Joe Vandenberg added 11.

Hilbert rallied from a 23-17 halftime deficit in what must be considered an upset at Mishicot. A 16-9 advantage in the third quarter put Hilbert back in the ballgame.

Hilbert, which made 16 of 43 floor shots, for 38 per cent, was led by John Kees' 13 points. Mike Novak and Jeff Schwabenlander each collected 12.

Mishicot, held to a 23 per cent mark from the floor (15 for 66) saw Ray Berres hit 11 points and Bruce Benthien 10.

Marty Pattin To Receive Special Award

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marty Pattin, the right-handed ace of the Milwaukee Brewers pitching staff, will receive a special honor at the 18th annual Diamond dinner Jan. 17, it was announced today.

The Milwaukee Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America, sponsor of the banquet, will present Pattin a V.I.P. — Very Important Pitcher — award.

Pattin finished the 1970 season with a respectable 14-12 record and 3.40 earned run average.

The writers also announced a record crowd in excess of 800 is assured, making this the earliest sellout in the affair's history.

Carr's 54 Points Wasted Indiana Outscores Notre Dame

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Johnny Neumann of Mississippi has stamped himself as a likely contender for the 1971 college basketball individual scoring championship along with Austin Carr of Notre Dame and Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville.

Neumann, a 6-foot-6 sophomore, scored 57 points, the highest individual single game performance of the young season, in leading the Rebels to a 109-100 victory over Southern Mississippi Tuesday night.

Carr, a 6-3 senior, tossed in 54 points in a losing cause as the Irish fell before Indiana 106-103.

Gilmore, a 7-2 giant, didn't play, but his 50 points against Biscayne on Dec. 1 ranked as the highest one game output until Neumann and Carr broke loose.

Neumann got his 57 points on 20 field goals and 17-of-18 free throws. Carr threw in 21 field goals and 12-of-14 free throws for his 54.

A turnout of 11,343 at South Bend watched the nationally seventh-ranked Irish fall before the 13th-ranked Hoosiers led by the combined 58-point production of Joby Wright and George McGinnis.

McGinnis and Wright, both 6-7, scored 29 points each as the Hoosiers, down by 10 points at halftime, 53-43, rallied to go ahead by nine points, then survived a closing Notre Dame surge.

North Carolina, No. 20 and the only other team in The Associated Press Top Twenty to see action, snapped Virginia's six-game winning streak, 80-75. Dennis Wuyck led the Tar Heels with 30 points.

Ed Ratliff scored 33 points to lead Long Beach State over Chicago Loyola 84-81 in overtime and Tom Window's layup in the closing seconds gave Kent State a 64-62 triumph over Purdue.

Friday's Games:
New London at Winneconne
Omro at Weyauwega
Berlin at Ripon
Hortonville at Waupaca

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

New London takes the East Central Conference's leading defense on the road this week and the destination will be Winneconne (1-3).

Other Friday contests have league-leading Hortonville (4-0) at Waupaca (2-2), Berlin (2-2) at Ripon (3-1), and Omro (0-4) at Weyauwega (1-3).

The Bulldogs have a 3-1 league record and are 5-2 overall. En route, they have allowed ECC foes 342 points while scoring 69.8.

Winneconne, on the other hand, has managed only 49.6 per game while yielding 65. Randy Kasuboski, 6-3, is the main threat for the Wolves with a 13.3 average. Bill Rice has an 11-point average.

Suffers Sprain

New London's pair of 6-3 starters are their leading scorers: Cal Handschke is fourth in the scoring race with a 15.5 average and Gary Wendt sports a 12.5 mark. Wendt suffered a severe sprain last week, but is hopeful of returning Friday.

Dave Teschke, a 6-1 forward has scored 45 points, for an 11.3 average and guards Bill Stern and Roger Steingraber have scored 39 points apiece.

A productive foursome leads the Hortonville attack. Quick shooting Tom Dorn is the leader with a 15.8 average.

Roger Warning has a 14.5 average and Mark Everts 11.8. John Kruei also is above double figures with a 12.0 mark. The only starter under double digits is Rob Pankow who has tallied a total of 31 points.

Head Pack

Hortonville has a 63.5 mark offensively and yielded 61.5 points in racing to the head of the pack. Waupaca, an inexperienced team, has a 56.8-57.8 ratio.

The Comets are paced by Tim Lewis, who is averaging 14.8. Lee Solberg has tossed in 45 points and Jim Jensen 41. Omro nearly defeated the Bears last week, before Hortonville recorded another of its familiar close victories.

Weyauwega hasn't found it too difficult scoring, but neither has its opposition. The Indians have a 59.5-72.2 scoring ratio. Omro has a 61.8-73.2 margin and indications are a lot of

Here's Elinor

Rams' Allen Will be Free Agent in January; Williams Seeks 'Name'

BY ELINOR KAINE

If the Rams get to the January championship games, their coach will be a free agent, because George Allen's contract runs out this month.

Elinor Kaine

Doesn't this mean any prospective employer of Allen can't be accused of tampering, after January 1? And Oiler owner Bud Adams, if he wants to talk to George Blanda about a coaching job—can Adams be accused of tampering if he doesn't get Al Davis' permission first? Now, there's a funny idea Oakland's running back Marv Hubbard, who was drafted No. 11 from Colgate in 1968, has gained 246 yards so far this season. One hundred and ninety one of them have been against Kansas City. Homer Jones says the Browns' attitude is a far cry from the attitude he knew for years at the Giants. "By this time in the season many of the players already had decided to wait until next year." With the exception of Fair Hooker, the Browns' bunch of receivers are the mystery department of the year, beginning with Gary Collins.

Linebacker Mike Curtis said something had to be done about the Colts. Something was. The night before they played the Eagles John Unitas called a let-your-hair-down meeting, which turned into a group encounter session and turned the Colts into a fired-up winner after six lousy games. But up at Buffalo the Colts had a relapse. If they are to beat the Jets Saturday, some Friday night group therapy is a must for Baltimore.

Edward Bennett Williams is likely to go for a "name" when he starts shopping for a new coach. Names like Bud Wilkinson, Ara Parseghian, George Allen and Joe Paterno keep dropping about. Even O.J. Simpson goes through typical rookie disease. "The whole year-and-a-half was like a fairy tale," said O. J. from his house in California. "It's just now I'm getting back to living like a normal person. More important, I'm beginning to understand what pro football is all about."

John Brodie, who used to chastise chatty Claude Humphrey, now votes him best defensive end in the league.

Before training camp a year ago, Raider tackle Tom Keating gave his motorcycle key to a girl friend, so he wouldn't be tempted to ride it during the season.

"This year I have a new one," said Tom. Not a new girl friend. A new Honda 750. Late in January, hopefully after successfully participating in the Super Bowl, Keating and Ben Davidson plan to depart for Baja and a trip through Mexico on their motorcycles. Will it be a heavyweight version of "Easy Rider"?

"Last time I went to Mexico I took a gun," said Ben, who has several Mexican forays to his credit. "For sleeping in the open it's handy, for coyote and rabbit. I guess this year I won't take a gun. I'll take Tom along instead."

and in the scoring race, with a 17.8 average as the stingy Comets held the big pivot man to 11 points last week. Jeff Gast is averaging 13.8 and Ron Kriesie 10.5. So far the Indians have lacked the KO punch from its back court of Terry Nellis and J. P. Nolan who have 26 and 41 points respectively.

Ken Tritt, Omro guard, took the ECC scoring lead with a 19.0 average as he canned 25 points in the Foxes' loss to Hortonville. Larry Dobberstein is averaging 13.5 and Ken Koch, Dennis Moon and Jim Lenz balance the scoring.

Renew Battle

Berlin and Ripon renew their battle on the hardwood. A loss would be damaging to either, but more so to the Indians who lost to New London, 55-49, last week. The Bulldogs held down Bruce Ursin and Doug Parsons—the high scoring forwards—who are averaging 14.5 and 14.8, respectively.

Larry Bahr, the 6-6 pivot man, has tallied 45 points, while guards Larry Hollmaier has netted 47 and Paul Krause 32. Ripon will counter with its own big line headed by 6-5 John Radke, 6-3 Kyle Wiggs and 6-2 Henry Hillscher. Hillscher is the leading scorer with a 15.3 average. Wiggs is hitting 14.0 per game, guard Steve Stellmacher 12.5 and Radke 12. The fifth starter, Kelly O'Brien, has scored 43 points for a 10.8 average.

The Tigers are the top offensive team with 72.2 per outing, while Berlin is second in ECC defense with a 55 mark. The Indians have scored 63.8 per game, while Ripon is allowing 57.8.

FVL Jayvees Divide Pair

Fox Valley Lutheran's jayvee cagers were left with a 5-2 record after dividing two games over the weekend.

Tom Hanke collected 24 points and John Schultz added 12 as the Foxes downed Martin Luther, 60-43, Friday night. The winners employed their fast break in moving to a 31-19 halftime advantage.

Milwaukee Lutheran's height was too much as the Foxes lost to the Knights Saturday night, 50-44. Tim Young-Eagle topped the winners with 19 points, while Hanke drilled 15 and Jim Mattek 10 for the Foxes.

Everybody Gets Up For Cavaliers, Says Cleveland's Bill Fitch

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
NEW YORK (AP) — There's a world of difference between the champion New York Knicks and the hapless Cleveland Cavaliers, but Coach Bill Fitch complains that other National Basketball Association teams "get up for us just like they do for the Knicks."

After all, he says, "Who wants to be the first established club to lose to us?"
The Knicks don't, although it was hard to tell during Tuesday night's lethargic first period, which ended with Cleveland on top 23-22. Then, Walt Frazier, Dave Stallworth and Mike Riordan combined for a 15-2 burst to start the second period and the Knicks were off and running to a 110-92 triumph.

Lakers Upset
Elsewhere in the NBA, Buffalo nipped Los Angeles 113-111 in overtime, Chicago trimmed Baltimore 115-97, Philadelphia trounced San Diego 122-88, San Francisco defeated Phoenix 128-123 and Detroit beat Portland 111-103.

In the American Basketball Association, Denver defeated Carolina 126-116 and Memphis shaded Texas 146-141 in overtime.

Cleveland's loss to the Knicks was the fifth in a row and 32nd in 34 starts for the first-year expansion team. The Cavaliers have already had losing streaks of 15 and 12 games and have beaten only their expansion brethren, Portland and Buffalo.

No Optimist
"I'm not an optimist even when I've got more bullets than the other guy," said Fitch. "But we went to Milwaukee to play the Bucks and the weather was so bad only one plane got there all day . . . ours."

"I've been preaching ball-handling, that there's no way to get in trouble defensively if we have the ball. So last week against Portland we win the tap and Johnny Warren lays the ball in the wrong basket. Most teams hold up one finger to indicate a set play. We do it to point which direction we're going."

Despite New York's 15-2 sport, the Cavaliers stayed within 15 consecutive points late in the third period for an 81-57 luge.

Instant Replays
"Our games are all like instant replays," Fitch said. "It's the same script we've been following. We play people pretty even for a while and then we have one or two bad spells. If we could get someone to go for 30-minute games in this league we'd be tougher than hell."

"I'm going to be the world's worst coach this year, but I've got to make damn sure I'm not the world's worst teacher. We've got to stay with it and hope things get turned around."

George Wilson's basket with jump around a lot. And their linebacker corps (Mike Luceri, Paul Nafumoff and Wayne Walker) is real active."

From a personal standpoint, he noted, "Both their cornerbacks, Dick LeBeau and Lem Barney, are real good athletes." The former VPI luminary, a Pro Bowl choice the last two years, modestly refrained from mentioning that he customarily has had considerable success against this pair, particularly Barney.

In six games with the Lions, prior to this year's opening debacle, Dale caught 25 passes for 632 yards and four touchdowns. Those figures include a 6-for-205 performance in 1968, the fourth highest 1-game yardage total in Packer history, and a 7-for-167 production en route to a 28-17 victory in Detroit last season.

Although only one reception behind his career high total of 45, registered last season, Dale says with evident sincerity, "I'm not really concerned about individual accomplishments."

"I hope everybody will commit himself to playing his best Sunday. Every man has to get himself ready and you can't really tell how the entire squad will react."

"In our first game with the Lions, we may have been too ready. Everybody was so on edge, we were to a point where we couldn't perform."

Again looking to Sunday's finale, he said, "If we have any pride, we can't write this one off."

PACKER PATER — With Monday night's 28-23 decision over the Los Angeles Rams, the Lions now have disposed of four division leaders in succession.

San Francisco was the first victim (28-7) followed by Oakland (28-14) and St. Louis (16-3). The Lions, who subdued the Rams in the Los Angeles Coliseum, will remain in California until Thursday, an understandable decision . . . They obviously prefer practice in relatively balmy weather to working out in Detroit's wintry temperatures.

Packer quarterback Don Horn, who underwent knee surgery Dec. 3, made his first visit to the dressing room Tuesday . . . Dangling his legs from Trainer Domenic Gentile's table, he gingerly flexed his right knee as he began the road back to mobility.

"It's stiff," he admitted, "but I haven't used it for better than two weeks."

Preble Deals Patriots 1st Mat Defeat

Appleton East Now 4-1 as Hornets Take 26-13 Win

GREEN BAY — Preble High School dealt the Appleton East wrestlers their first defeat of the season, 26-13, Tuesday in dual action.

The Patriots carried a 4-0 slate into the contest, but several previously unbeaten grapplers were upset by their Hornet opponents.

Paul Kindisch posted a win at 98 pounds. Mike Verkuilen recorded a pin at 105 and John Brewer won his 132 pound bout. Dan Huelbeck remained unbeaten at 167, but his tie resulted in a 4-0-1 record for the Patriot standout. Brewer's win broke his record to 5-0.

Dennis Vandeburg suffered his first defeat at 145 pounds as his record is 2-1-2. Also suffering their first losses were Jim Butler (155) and Jeff Brown (185). Heavyweight Larry Turkow saw his record dip to 3-1-1 with his defeat.

Name Randle Head Coach at East Carolina

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Ulmo Shannon "Sonny" Randle, who caught 385 passes in a decade of pro football, snared Tuesday his first head coaching job at East Carolina University.

He had served one year on the staff of the Southern Conference school as offensive assistant under Mike McGee, who last week left East Carolina to head the staff at Duke University, his alma mater.

Randle's best professional years were with the St. Louis Cardinals. He broke in with the Chicago Cardinals in 1959 and was with the team when it moved to St. Louis. He also served brief stints with San Francisco, Dallas and Washington.

Presto Wins 3 to Tighen Volley Race

Presto Products (5-10), previous sole owner of the cellar spot, swept three games in the latest session of the Appleton YMCA Women's Volleyball League to tighten the race.

Each of the other three teams managed just one win in three tries. Appleton Coated (10-5) and Appleton State Bank still share the lead. Presto now shares third place with Allis Chalmers.

Average Precipitation in the Fox Valley for the next 30 days is 10 to 12 inches. Temperature averages range from 25-26 to a low of 10-11. (AP Wirephoto Maps)

High School Yule Concert Slated At Wrightstown
WRIGHTSTOWN — The annual Christmas concert, with a completely new format, will be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the high school.

A concert is being presented solely by the high school music ensembles, concert chorus and band.

While the chorus will sing only seasonal music, the band will play both concert and Christmas music so the program will have a variety to please everyone.

Many different styles will be presented such as popular, serious and traditional selections.

The program will be under the direction of Mrs. Tom Merens and Keith Osterman.

Kroger Staying, Officials Claim

Kroger Food Stores, Cincinnati, Ohio-based firm, has no plans to withdraw from the Wisconsin market, Kroger officials have said.

A spokesman from the headquarters office said that the firm intends to continue operating its supermarkets in Wisconsin. It has, however, closed several stores in Milwaukee in recent years and has cut back sharply in other areas of the Midwest.

Kroger, which opened its first Wisconsin store in Madison in 1928, has 56 stores in its Wisconsin chain, including four in the Fox Cities.

It bought the Krambo Foods Stores chain in Milwaukee several years ago.

Nancy Richey Weds TV Official

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Top-ranked women's amateur tennis player Nancy Richey was wed Tuesday to Kenneth S. Gunter, a San Angelo television executive.

The couple planned a honeymoon in Acapulco, Mex., before Miss Richey plays in an indoor tennis tournament in San Francisco Jan. 6.

Zip It Along! Mail Volume Tops Rest of World's

On a typical day, according to the United States Postal Service, it processes almost as much mail as the rest of the world combined.

During Christmas, it notes, the load is astronomical. Use of ZIP Codes helps simplify the task, as does early shopping and early mailing.

Over 75 per cent of the nation's mail now carries Zip Code in the mailing address. Appleton area mailer's use it about 88 per cent of the time.

We're striving for 100 per cent use of Zip Code in both mailing and return addresses," said Postmaster Francis Summitt.

This holiday card season is an excellent time for all the once-a-year card and letter writers to inform their friends and relatives of their ZIP CODES on their return address," Summitt added.

To aid mailers in finding the correct Zip Code of a friend or relative, the Post Office has available, a large Zip Code Book located in the lobby of the Post Office. For that "one" Zip Code that may have been missed, it is possible to phone the Post Office at 734-7141 and obtain it over the phone.

Summitt also suggests: When preparing mailings be sure to use proper addresses including house numbers and apartment numbers to insure accuracy of distribution and delivery.

It is of the utmost importance that all endorsements on mail such as "air mail," "special delivery," should be in bold letters and placed above the address and below the postage.

The endorsement "address correction requested" under the return address, will provide the sender with the addressee's new address, if there is one, for a fee of 10 cents.

"Air mail" should be used for gift parcels and greeting cards for distant points, especially as the mailing date comes nearer to the holidays.

Mailers are also reminded of the advantages of using "special delivery" service. On a normal letter the fee is 45 cents in addition to the regular "first class" or air mail fee. Special delivery articles will be delivered on the day of arrival at its destination up to the limits of the local night delivery limits. "Special delivery" articles will also be delivered on Christmas Day and on Sundays.

Summitt also stressed the importance of mailing early in the morning. Drop Christmas cards in the appropriate receptacle in the Post Office lobby or one of the street mail boxes on the way to work. Then the mail can be processed early and be on its way to its destination early in the afternoon. Separating local and out of town letters into individual bundles aids in the processing of the mail.

When mailing parcels, you should place a slip of paper inside each parcel listing the contents and the name and address, in case the outside wrapper becomes detached. Put a label on one side only.

"Postal employees would appreciate the cooperation of all our patrons," Summitt added. People are requested not to cover up their house numbers with Christmas decorations. Those who do not have house numbers should make an all out effort to get some as soon as possible.

Persons expecting parcels and plan to leave for shopping or other purposes should make arrangements with neighbors to receive parcels, by leaving a note on the front door instructing the carrier as to where he should deliver the parcel especially if it must be signed for by someone.

Patrons who have small or worn-out mail receptacles should either purchase a larger mail box or a larger temporary mail box near the present one to receive the larger volume of mail during the holiday season.

Sidewalks and steps leading to your mail boxes should be free of snow and ice, to eliminate possible injuries to carriers and visitors due to falls—mail boxes should also be visible from the sidewalk in order that substitute mail carriers can find them.

Green Bay Man Faces Court on Charge of Stealing Chain Saw

A Green Bay man made a first court appearance Tuesday on the theft charge for which another man was placed on probation last Wednesday.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer set further proceedings for Frank Schinkis, 41, for Der 18. He set bail at $100.

Schinkis allegedly stole a chain saw from the garage of a Town of Oneida man, William Schaubman Oct. 12. William Jacob, 44, De Pere, was placed on a year's probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services on the incident last week.

A county investigator alleged that Schinkis was along with Jacob at the time the theft occurred. The pair was said to have sold the unit to a party in Green Bay for $30 and then to have split the proceeds.

Our Involvement in Cambodia

President Nixon has requested $255 million for economic and military aid to Cambodia, part of it to repay funds which were transferred from other aid programs to Cambodia after Prince Sihanouk was ousted. But the United States Senate has made it very clear that it will not approve the use of the funds for the support of American ground troops in Cambodia. The real question is how involved are we with our air power in all of Indochina.

After former President Johnson halted the bombing raids over North Vietnam in an effort to get negotiations going, our raids in Laos were considerably stepped up. Fred Branfman, a graduate of the University of Chicago and the Harvard School of Education, is publishing a book after three and a half years of teaching and studying in Laos. In articles written for newspapers, he describes the changes from ambassadorial veto power on air raid targets in Laos to agreement with just about whatever the United States Air Force and the Central Intelligence Agency wanted to do. This included the obliteration of villages thought to be in sympathy with the Communist Pathet Lao as well as the raids upon the Ho Chih Minh trail. When the story of this war is eventually fully told, the atrocities now being described at My Lai may look pale in comparison with what our bombing raids have done to noncombatants in Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam. There is little moral difference, it would seem, in such atrocities, only those who bomb do not have to face their often unarmed victims.

The restrictions on ground combat forces as well as those on air strikes which aim at supporting the current regime in Cambodia or paying for "volunteers" from other countries such as Thailand obviously is a handicap to the military in fighting the Indochina war. Secretary Laird has conceded that the current American bombing raids in Cambodia, while aimed primarily at North Vietnamese on the Ho Chih Minh trail or seeking to re-establish supply bases wiped out by the American invasion last spring, do give some support to the Cambodian government. Obviously it is difficult to divide the two aims completely. The strikes may succeed in discouraging the Communists so that they will bargain more realistically.

But we are doubtful. According to Mr. Branfman, there has been little or poor reconnaissance in Laos after raids to determine whether they have really accomplished anything. The enemy has shown itself willing to continue fighting even when the raids in North Vietnam were going on. The whole situation seems to reflect the dichotomy in the Nixon Administration. Are we seeking a military victory or a political settlement?

After the unsuccessful raid on a former POW camp in North Vietnam, those who planned it were awarded medals and Secretary Laird insisted that our intelligence had been excellent. Somehow this is a little like the old saw that the operation was a success but the patient died. Nevertheless, if President Nixon can see victory in this sort of operation maybe he'll come around eventually to Senator Aiken's suggestion that we just say we've won the war and bring all the boys home. At the very least the real facts of our bombing operations in Laos and Cambodia ought to be made public.

Secretary of State William Rogers told the Senate Appropriations Committee that "we have no intention of slipping into the mistakes of the past" by becoming more deeply involved in Cambodia. It seems likely that we already have.

"I wear the chain I forged in life," replied the ghost of former President Hoover.

British Prime Minister, Nixon Have Many Things in Common

WASHINGTON — British Prime Minister Edward Heath, arriving in Washington for Thursday-Friday meetings with the President, not only shares many similarities of personality, outlook, and background with Mr. Nixon, but faces many of the same problems. This kinship may be an important ingredient in re-establishing the close, working relationship between British and U. S. government heads that prevailed before the Lyndon Johnson-Harold Wilson years.

Mr. Heath is the son of a carpenter; Mr. Nixon is the son of a carpenter-turned-storekeeper. Both men went to college on scholarships.

Both men are products of the meritocracy. Each is distrustful by his party's fashionable or aristocratic establishment, and also by the powerful Tory and Republican right wings.

The New York Times has profiled the British Prime Minister as a "tall but lonely man who remains deeply private even in the hurly-burly of British politics." Added the Times: "To his enemies Heath is chilly and calculating, a politician driven by a single dream: to become Prime Minister." Reference was also made to the oft-mentioned opinion that Mr. Heath lacks "a feeling for humanity." Of course, very much the same thing has been said of Richard Nixon.

Won Upset Victory
Edward Heath became Prime Minister of Britain in June, 1970 immediately after his party won an upset victory, gaining 46 per cent of the vote and a thin edge in the House of Commons. (President Nixon, who followed the British returns closely and with pleasure, was one of the first foreign leaders to telephone Heath.)

However, Mr. Heath has never commanded great personal popularity, and his party has already lost its June lead. The most recent British Gallup Poll puts the Conservatives behind Labour by 4 1/2 per cent. Should the Conservatives suffer a series of by-election losses, their thin edges in the House of Commons could melt away in a few years forcing a general election. Thus, both Mr. Heath and Mr. Nixon have tenuous holds on their seats of power. affairs, both are opposed to the strong isolationist or "little England" forces in the Democratic and Labour parties. Reversing a prior Labour government decision, economy by market processes. Taxes are being reduced, industries denationalized, depreciation allowances increased. To curb wage and price trends, Mr. Heath offers Britons little more than free enterprise advice: "The freedom is yours, but yours to use right." The prestigious Economist (a weekly) has dismissed this as a "do it yourself anti-inflation kit" and many jittery Tory leaders are urging Mr. Heath to switch to an incomes policy.

On the domestic front, Mr. Heath has caused a much bigger upheaval in six months than Mr. Nixon has in twenty-three. He has cut back a number of welfare programs and subsidies, slashed public expenditures well below Labour projections, and laid down general principles to govern upcoming reduction of housing subsidies and selling-off of some public housing.

Although the Prime Minister wants to boost aid to the needy, he is determined to reduce the role of government in the financial and social lives of those who can fend for themselves. He describes this vision, coupled with an unfettered economy, as the "free society." But former Prime Minister Harold Wilson, now leading the opposition, calls it a determination to "turn the clock back to an age far beyond the living memory of any of us."

Tries Free Enterprise
Whereas President Nixon has decided to step up government intervention in the economy, Prime Minister Heath is taking the contrary gamble: the unfettering of free enterprise to right the

Cabinet Idea May Be Knowles' Most Vital Contribution to State

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Government and its organs are notoriously reluctant to change. That is why the state government reorganization of a few years ago was regarded as such a remarkable event. The changes were less important than some of the publicity by their authors suggested. But the fact that any change was managed was such a novel experience that the enactment was hailed far and wide.

Even more significant, however, was the decision of Gov. Knowles to build upon the relatively minor structural changes to introduce new methods through executive initiative. The best illustration was his cautious, tentative experimentation with the "cabinet" idea. The opportunity was handed to him when the Kellett Act provided that a few of the key department administrators be chosen on an indefinite tenure basis, serving "at the pleasure of the governor," as the new law termed it.

With that opening, the retiring governor established in embryo the cabinet idea. Gradually it has been extended to include also the heads of departments who have definite tenure and those who hold their offices not by appointment of the elected executive, but by the choice of policy-making boards and commissions. It was altogether informal. No substantive action has been recorded as a result of the consultation of the several functional "cabinet" sections.

Knowles Nurtured Idea
But a seed was planted. Cautiously, patiently Gov. Knowles nurtured the seedling. During the last year his cabinet meetings have been held on a regular schedule, with the participants obviously profiting from formal consultation, an attentive press on the sidelines and with the prestige and authority of the governor at the head of the table.

Now the governor has communicated to his chosen successor his conception of the value of his innovation, and Gov. Elect Lucey is prepared to enlarge upon and elaborate the foundation that his predecessor built slowly and carefully.

History may very well record that the emergence of the "cabinet" during the Knowles regime, quite without the express command of law, will be one of the lasting achievements of his time.

Legacy to Successor
The new governor could be given no more important legacy by his predecessor.

Mr. Lucey is a pragmatist. He did not seek the highest constitutional honor of this state only for its honor or its prestige or the pleasure of holding a place that is given to so few men to occupy.

Those were considerations, among others that moved him to campaign so diligently and so long. But another and important consideration was to rule, to achieve, to leave a mark upon his times, to get the most and the best out of the flow of tax dollars to the state treasury, within his rights.

The retiring governor has no reason for affection toward his successor. The themes of the Lucey campaign over a period of many months were heavily derogatory to Knowles.

Bears No Resentment

But Knowles bears no lasting resentment, as he indicated when he talked with Lucey privately a fortnight ago and reviewed with him the slow establishment of the cabinet idea and again when he told department heads of his hope that they would encourage continuation and refinement of the teamwork represented in the informal cabinets during his own last term.

The popular conception of the state government is of a centralized, highly integrated, cooperative establishment. That is illusion. Some department heads rarely see each other. Many have never consulted. Their territorial possessiveness and insulation from the concerns and the operations of their fellow administrators would be inconceivable in private enterprise — and doubtless has been costly.

The circumstance of the aggressive Lucey following the innovative Knowles may well be a turning point in state administration.

Strictly Personal

Words Often Used As Smoke Screens

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

As a language grows more "sophisticated," in the modern sense, it seems to accomplish two opposite things at once: it clarifies expression and confuses it at the same time. In "advanced" societies, words are as often haven't read because they couldn't understand them even after reading.

This is not to make the arrogant assumption that tribal languages are childish, as so many of us do. Prof. Mario Pei, in his book, "The Story of Language," points out that the two principal African tongues, Hausa and Swahili, are far from crude or simple-minded.

Swahili, indeed, he tells us, has reached such a stage of development that the comedies of Moliere have been successfully translated into it, and presented with an all-African cast. And the Bantu languages (of which family this is a member) are termed "infinitely expressive" by his professor of linguistics.

For instance, English has no word like "mumagagama," which means "one who loses other people's things," or "muvavi," meaning "a good-looking woman who can't cook," or "muwandoloci," meaning "someone who grows when awakened in the morning," or "mutolatoli," meaning "one who is constantly divorcing and remarriage." Bantu even has a word for a "yes-man" — "muvumizi."

The terms and phrases we have developed, which are lacking in Swahili and other native tongues, are not so much tools of communication as weapons of obfuscation — means of confounding, intimidating, impressing, frightening or fooling people. When you are loftily told that your ailment may be "iatrogenic," what that means is that it's probably something you picked up from the doctor.

This reflection was prompted by a little news item out of Swaziland, the new African state which has established its own national airline. Recently, the airline decided to print tickets in Swazi instead of English, "and ran up against some tricky linguistic problems," the story noted. Technical and legalistic terms are nonexistent in this tribal tongue, and the official translator of the tickets finally gave up trying to translate such phrases as "unless expressly so provided, nothing herein contained shall waive any limitation of liability of carrier."

Every passenger has seen this gobbledygook on his ticket, and not one out of a thousand English-speaking travelers can understand it. Such language is devised (as it is in household leases) to give the carrier and the landlord all the best of it, while confusing the layman. In our society, millions of people agree to or sign things they

Great Denier Plunges to Death

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 24, 1870.

John Denier, the rope walker who appeared not too long ago in Appleton and vicinity, fell from a tight-rope in Lexington, Ky. and broke his neck.

Hundreds of residents of this county will remember—as will thousands in the State—this man and his wonderful feats. All who knew his personal merits will read this announcement with sincere regrets.

And yet, we presume, just as moral, temperate and worthy men as he will continue to devote themselves to gymnastic feats—and sudden death.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 12, 1945.

Hugo Schuldes was president of the Outagamie County Tavern League which held its fourth annual Christmas party attended by mayors of the various cities in the county and heads of villages. John W. Roach, formerly of Appleton, and head of the Wisconsin beverage and cigarette tax division, gave the talk and Homer Bowlby served as toastmaster for the occasion.

Master Sergeant Albert L. Anderson, en route home from the southwest Pacific, is the new Waupaca County clerk but he doesn't know it yet. He'll hear the news when he'll hear the news when he's arrived in the United States. Theodore Anderson, his father, placed his name in competition for the post and the veteran was elected by the county board. Anderson was deputy clerk when he entered the Army in 1942 and he will succeed his former boss, Lelan J. Stelger, who resigned several weeks earlier, effective Dec. 31.

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 14, 1960.

Thomas Kerrigan, Town of Black Wolf, was elected president of Winnebago County Elementary Principals Association. Miss Edna Palecek, Winnebago Community Schools, was named vice president, and Robert Fowler, Spring Road School, Town of Menasha, secretary.

Officers of the Menasha High School Pep Club were Lynn Stevens, president; Diane Gilbertson, vice president; Roseann Koslo, secretary; and Georgia Gajewski, treasurer.

Peter Roycroft, route 1, Omro, was honored with a Wisconsin 4-H achievement award for his 12 years work as a 4-H member. Roycroft was a junior at the University of Wisconsin.

Door Closed On Legislative Pay Increases

BOGO Follows
Lucey Call for
State Austerity

MADISON (AP) — A proposal to increase salaries of Wisconsin legislators by 10 per cent reached the end of the line Tuesday on a 4-3 vote by the Board on Government Operations.

The action closed the door on a motion that had been recommended by the Legislative Compensation Council, the director of the Bureau of Personnel and the state Personnel Board.

The council had been created by the legislature to examine the feasibility of pay hikes. Wisconsin ranks 10th in the nation in legislative salaries.

If the proposal had succeeded, 117 of 133 lawmakers would have drawn $9,790 a year as opposed to the $8,900 they now receive, effective Jan. 1.

BOGO's vote, by five Republicans and two Democrats, displayed a non-partisan flair that could lend strength to Democratic Gov.-elect Patrick J. Lucey's recent appeal for austerity in state spending.

GOP Votes

All four votes in opposition were cast by Republicans. They are Sens. Walter Hollander of Rosendale and William Draheim of Neenah, and Reps. Byron Wackett, Watertown, and John Shabaz, New Berlin.

Favoring the raise were Democratic Sen. Martin Schreiber of Milwaukee, the lieutenant governor-elect; Rep. Richard Pabst, D-Milwaukee, and Rep. Russell Olson, R-Kenosha.

Shabaz, speaking of a "responsibility factor in line with the additional austerity" said: "This is the first blow we can strike for it. We have to set the example."

Hollander stressed that current salaries "are adequate," and challenged: "If any member does more work than I do, step forward."

Wackett said he would "vote on no raises for anyone until we put the teachers back in the classroom."

He has been a strong critic of the practice of state university professors' devoting excessive time to research rather than instruction.

Schreiber explained his vote there are indications Wisconsin will "definitely be moving toward annual sessions" that would merit more work and more pay.

Although the BOGO meeting was open to the public, only six persons stepped forward to express views.

Two legislators who shared opposition to the pay increase were Reps. Edward Nager, D-Madison, and Kenneth Merkel, R-Brookfield.

Opposing Stands

Nager said his basic disagreement to pay boosts "rests on the nature of the approach."

He called it a "sloughing off of legislative responsibility" and repeated his earlier proposal of submitting a bill to the next session to "repeal the Legislative Compensation Council."

Nager and Merkel reached further agreement that the present economic situation is not consonant with a pay increase. Referring to a remark by Shabaz that "You are saving us about 30 cents a year per person," Nager said: "It's not the question of how much; it's the principle this time."

Relating to the economic crisis, Merkel said: "Somewhere it's got to stop. It might as well stop here today. If we don't vote to put the stopper on ourselves, how can we put the stopper on anybody else?"

Merkel also questioned BOGO's power and pointed out that "three lame ducks" were voting on the issue.

He meant Schreiber, who will become lieutenant governor in January, and Draheim and Olson, who were defeated for reelection Nov. 3.

Body in Plastic Bag

Goodwill Finds Dead Baby

NEENAH — The frozen body of a newborn baby was found this morning in a plastic garbage bag at the Fox Valley division headquarters of Goodwill Industries, 120 N. Lake St.

An autopsy will be performed today to determine the cause of death of the infant girl.

The unidentified infant may have been picked up during collections Monday in Green Bay or Tuesday in Manitowish, according to Vernon Johnson, production manager at the Goodwill firm.

Police said they will talk to Goodwill truck drivers who made pickups in those two cities in an attempt to narrow their search for the mother.

Police said late this morning that they had no leads. Johnson said the baby probably was deposited in an outside collection box. However, he did not rule out the possibility that it could have been picked up during house collections. Police hope to be able to answer that question after talking to the truck drivers.

Johnson said a Goodwill client, whom he declined to identify, found the body while unloading a trailer about 9:30 a.m. Police said the body was inside a green garbage bag, which was in a cardboard box.

According to Johnson, the client opened the bag because it appeared to be heavier than the other articles, which primarily consisted of clothing.

Johnson said the truck driver who collected the items that included the body would have had no reason to be suspicious. He explained that the truck drivers unload into big trailers parked behind the Neenah Goodwill building. Employees later unload the trailers and sort the merchandise. He said the trailers are kept locked, all but ruling out the possibility that someone put the infant directly into the trailer.

Capt. Vern Wollerman of the Neenah Police Department estimated the baby's weight at seven or eight pounds. Police could not immediately determine if the baby was dead when it was left for collection. The body was taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital for examination.

Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller is assisting in the investigation.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Because three policemen found eviction proceedings not in keeping with the Christmas spirit, two families in Miami and an elderly couple in New York City have a place to stay today.

Veteran Miami police sergeant William Kimbro donated the $36 nest egg he'd saved for Christmas liquor to pay for motel rooms for two families, including four children, he helped evict.

Two Manhattan patrolmen,

moved by the plight of Sam Labeiko, 85, and his wife Lizi, 80, held up their eviction on a technical point and then passed the hat to help raise the overdue rent money.

The Labeikos, who came to this country from Russia shortly after the turn of the century, had lived in their Lower East Side apartment for 33 years.

They were being evicted because they owed the landlord $155. The landlord had raised the rent from $36.80 to $46.80 a month and their Social Security money and Sam's pension simply wouldn't stretch that far.

Patrolman Thomas Finneran, 20, and his partner, Bob Borowski, 29, were assigned to stand by while a marshal evicted the couple. They decided to help.

First they demanded a look at the marshal's identity card which it turned out had expired. Then they noticed the eviction papers identified Sam as "John."

They sent the marshal packing, returned to their station house and got a donation of $1 from each of the 53 policemen on duty.

Back at the apartment, Sam had enough to make up the difference.

"We all felt," said Finneran afterward, "these were elderly people who had worked all their lives without taking handouts, and that they deserved a better break than they were getting."

In Miami Sgt. Kimbro said

he gave up his money to help the families because "I'm black, I like kids and it won't hurt me to stay sober over Christmas."

The two families were evicted from an apartment building Tuesday as the result of a rent strike by Negro tenants.

Kimbro took Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Small to a motel and guaranteed payment of $36 for two night's lodging.

"I'm no good Samaritan or humanitarian," Kimbro said. "I'm a cop. But I like kids and I didn't want to see those kids hauled around because of this rent strike. They could have been hurt."

"That was money I had to buy my Christmas whisky with."

"I don't expect the money back," Kimbro said. "I told those people I couldn't afford to pay for more than two days. Any of the guys would have done it if they had the money in their pockets."

Price Hikes Spur Riots In Poland

WARSAW (AP) — Six persons were killed and scores more injured in two days of rioting over price increases in the northern Polish city of Gdansk, the Polish Press Agency reported today.

Rioting also was reported in the nearby Baltic cities of Gdynia and Sopot.

Food prices have risen an average of 20 per cent.

The protests against price rises set off street battles, arson and looting on Monday and Tuesday in the first major disturbances reported in Poland since early 1968.

The official news agency did not mention disorders in Gdynia and Sopot but diplomatic informants and Radio Gdansk broadcasts had said earlier that bloody outbursts also gripped those areas. They said fires raged in the old section of Gdansk.

Official Word

The news agency dispatch was the first official word on the disorders.

The news agency's account blamed the outbursts on hooligans and adventurers.

It said:

"Using the situation which arose among the crew of the Gdansk shipyards, adventurist and hooligan elements having nothing in common with the working class, demolished and burned several public buildings and looted several shops (more than 10). Murders of intervening police were committed. There were also many heavily injured who are now hospitalized. As a result of these clashes caused by hooligans, six persons were killed and tens were injured."

Firm Steps

"Firm steps undertaken by the authorities led to dispersing the adventurist elements and to the return of order in the city. At the same time, the authorities have warned that they will react with a firmness upon any violation of public order and all antistate activity."

Militiamen were patrolling the cities' streets and the governor of Gdansk broadcast appeals for calm.

All flights from Warsaw to Gdansk were cancelled. Telephone operators refused calls to the area.

Radio Gdansk made a further appeal for calm and urged the people of Gdansk, Gdynia and Sopot not to hoard food.

"All efforts are being made to make life and work normal," said the broadcast. "By adequate measures the authorities are securing order. Following our appeal, shops have resumed work and are striving to meet fully all basic needs of the populace."

"There is no, repeat no, need to hoard excessive quantities of foodstuffs. The shops will have full supplies to satisfy the needs of the population."

In Hamburg, West Germany, shipping sources reported that about 20 vessels with cargo destined for Gdansk were not permitted to enter the harbor. Polish authorities gave no reason

Production in 4th Month of Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — With industrial production taking a fourth straight monthly slide, signs of a hoped-for economic upturn continue to elude the Nixon administration.

The six-tenths of one per cent decline in the key economic indicator in November came despite settlement of the United Auto Workers' strike against General Motors.

While the drop was not as severe as October's decline during the height of the strike, it still reflected a lag in the economy. The Federal Reserve Board Tuesday attributed most of the drop to a slack of output in business and defense equipment and industrial materials.

But the board offered one hopeful note.

Auto assemblies, which fell sharply during the strike, maintained a steady pace in November and the board said: "with the settlement of the strike, auto production is expected to rise sharply in December."

Meanwhile, Paul W. McCracken, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, was quoted as giving Republican senators Tuesday a "moderately optimistic" view of the economy in 1971.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said McCracken predicted a mild decrease in unemployment in 1971, "but not of a startling nature." In November, employment stood at 5.8 per cent of the work force, highest in 7½ years.

In other news of the economy, the government reported the nation's economy passed the $1 trillion mark Tuesday.

President Nixon celebrated the event by unveiling a new Gross National Product clock, an electronic device that ticks off the nation's output in goods and services at the rate of $2,000 per second.

Nixon said the nation would not be able to propose government health, education and welfare programs without such "an enormously productive economy."

The GNP clock, which ticks off inflation as well as growth in the economy, cost about $6,000, Commerce Department officials said.

Pope Reportedly Hit by Influenza

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI canceled his scheduled weekly public audience today because of an attack of influenza accompanied by a slight fever.

The pontiff is 73.

His personal doctor, Prof. Mario Fontana, said "the favor is so light that His Holiness can take care of normal church affairs with his aides."

Hickel Blames Nixon Aides for Discord

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time today, Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel says presidential staff members came between him and President Nixon, and created an "isolation of thought" at the White House.

Staff members meddled in department affairs, Hickel said, and may have tried to keep him away from the President because they feared he could persuade Nixon in favor of programs they opposed.

Hickel, fired by the President Nov. 25 after two stormy years in the Cabinet, told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview: "There is a direction going in the White House, at the staff level, that I disagree with."

Nixon Not Criticized

He carefully avoided any criticism of President Nixon, however.

In fact, said Hickel, whenever he did see the President he found him receptive, ready to "light up" at a good idea.

Hickel, heading back to Alaska today—"to spend Christmas with friends, to rest, to think"—was vague on his future, but indicated he will try to bring a positive, hopeful attitude to the public—unlike the "negative" political campaign he said the Republican party waged this fall.

To the youth of America, whom he saw as disappointed at his dismissal, Hickel said: "Don't give up."

Here are excerpts from the interview:

Q—Gov. Hickel, how do you feel now about the hectic two years that ended with a personal dismissal by the President?

A—Men sometimes think to themselves, "If I ever get there, this is what I'll do," but so often when they get there, they really lost the reason why they wanted to get there. I never lost that reason. I made up my mind I would change certain things.

No Apologies

And that's why I feel so free as I leave, because I have nothing to apologize for.

Q—After you were fired, you wondered out loud why the President had hired you in the first place; did he give you any idea, in the beginning, what he wanted you to do?

A—No, not at that time. His statement when he introduced me was that he wanted me to bring vision and a new approach to Interior, and that's exactly what I was trying to do.

I was carrying out what I thought was not only my viewpoint but that of the administration, and at no time was I ever criticized by the President for those many controversial actions, or for any direction I took on pollution and the environment.

Good Job

Q—You mean while you were secretary, the President was occasionally saying: "You're doing a good job?"

A—Yes. Especially on environment and pollution matters.

Q—Then how do you account for the strained relationship that developed between you and the White House?

A—Any man in the White House with those burdensome responsibilities can only react in the way the input gets to him.

Any reaction I had from the President was always on a positive, imaginative basis for solving problems. He'd light up when I'd talk to him about program proposals, like my 20-year financing plan for municipal waste-treatment construction. But that's one of the programs I lost, and I think I lost it because I never talked to the President directly again about it. I think it was lost at the staff level.

Getting In

Q—But you seemed to have trouble getting to the President. You once said if you could have talked with him or his aide, John Ehrlichman, for five minutes, you would not have had to write your famous May 8 letter.

Was that a frequent problem?

A—I had never pushed as hard as I did that day. But it was more an isolation of thought than an isolation of individuals. It was really an attitude. I think men who try too hard for a job have to compromise too many things. I came totally free. I came to do a job, not to get a job; to do a job for 200 million Americans.

If you capture that intent, you've got Wally Hickel's approach to the problems, and you've got his problems with the administration.

Q—That sounds like the popular notion of a little "in-group" isolating the President and controlling his "input." Is that your view?

A—I believe there is a direction going, in the White House, at the staff level, that I disagree with.

I think many members of the White House staff got involved in departmental things far beyond necessity. I think they wanted to be helpful; it doesn't necessarily make them bad men. But if the system gets going in the wrong direction, it makes it impossible to solve some of the enormous problems we're faced with.

Q—Isn't that up to the President himself? He can get whatever input he asks for.

A—When I had an opportunity to talk with him, I found him so willing to listen. . . . It might be that on a one-to-one basis I appeared too effective a salesman for a program that maybe some lesser member of government didn't like.

Political Campaign

Q—You have also disagreed with the tactics of the 1970 Republican political campaign. How do you assess its effects?

A—We had so many positive, good things to talk about that there just wasn't any reason to run a negative campaign. . . . It was the negative attitude, more than anything, that I thought was not acceptable to the American people.

Q—What do you think America's youth will think about the chances of working within the

Budget, Tax Levy Adopted By City Council at Waupaca

WAUPACA — The City Council formally accepted the 1971 budget Tuesday, levying a tax of $340,789 for city purposes and $654,092 for state, county, state trust fund and schools, at the rate of 56.5 mills on the 1970 assessed valuation.

Final figures approved by resolution show expenditures of $663,932 for general operation, $15,403 for contingency and $65,885 in capital outlay. This is offset by $404,431 in anticipated revenues during 1971.

Approval was given, unanimously, to increase the sewer tax rate from the present 110 per cent of the water bill to 125 per cent of the water bill. The new sewer rate will go into effect Jan. 1, 1971.

The council also acted to give lawn sprinklers a break next summer. To do this, the city is divided into three units, to accommodate quarterly water meter reading.

In the first group, residents will have their reduced sewer tax during May, June and July, based on their water consumption for the months of March, April and May.

The second group will have its rate for July, August and September, based on the quarter which includes January, February and March. The third group will have the sewer tax during August, September and October, based on water use in February, March and April.

Schedule Due
City Engineer Iver Oerter will announce a detailed schedule of sewer rate billing during the summer months later this week.

Ald. Julius Johnson (4th) called attention to the fact that increasing the sewer tax from 110 per cent to 125 per cent and giving home owners a break during the summer months would result in no increase in revenues for the sewer commission. "The commission's revenues will increase only after water rates are increased, if they are," he pointed out.

The city will apply for a hearing before the public service commission shortly after Jan. 1. At that time the city will request an increase in water rates, sufficient to make the water utility self-supporting. Rates were last increased in December of 1969.

Three Rinks
After a lengthy discussion, the council agreed to spend the necessary funds for a new trench at the present city dump. It was informally agreed that the present dump will continue in operation until May of 1971.

The Recreation Council was authorized to spend $220 for a snowblower to clear three city skating rinks this winter.

The Recreation Department will open rinks on the lower parking area in South Park, the park behind old city hall and at the Methodist Church.

The council is considering the assessment of a tax on pool tables, pin ball machines and juke boxes operating in the city. Ald. Marilyn Looker (3rd) reported that New London and Shawano have an annual license fee of $15 per machine; Clintonville and Berlin, $10 per machine, and Ripon, $5 per machine.

The approved 1971 budget includes an anticipated revenue of $600 for this new tax, based on 60 machines at $10 per unit. A recommendation will be prepared and license fee set for the Jan. 5 council meeting.

Stockbridge Gets C of C Officers

STOCKBRIDGE — Daniel Hamm advanced to president of the Stockbridge Community Chamber of Commerce Monday, during its annual meeting.

New directors named to three-year terms are Charles Vandenberg and David Hemauer, they replaced Delmar Gerhart and Dale Gilbertson. A vice president will be named at the organizational meeting.

Other officers are Mike Hemauer, secretary and Sylvester Penning, treasurer. Holdover directors are Paul Westenberg, Helen Babbitz and Charles Lisowe.

During the year, the Chamber of Commerce sponsored a dinner for members of the public school faculty and honored Cathy Hemauer, Miss Calumet of 1969, presenting her with a gift certificate.

The group also sponsored the annual athletic and scholarship banquet and provided a scholarship for an outstanding high school graduate as well as paying for the athletes to attend the state basketball tournaments in Madison.

Other youth projects included a corn roast for boys attending the Chicago White Sox Boys Camp at Brotherhood and sponsoring of baton and dancing lessons for the eighth consecutive year. Five classes are being conducted under the supervision of Mrs. John Karls, with 56 pupils enrolled.

The Chamber of Commerce provided new jackets and emblems for the Starlight baton twirling group, which performs at area parades and community events, as well as co-sponsoring two youth baseball leagues and furnishing equipment.

A public corn roast was held in September and the organization sponsored a sturgeon award banquet in March, honoring Merlyn Winkler, Brillion, for spearfishing the largest fish registered at area weigh-in stations during the season.

The first Snowmobile Day was conducted in January and the group is responsible for the Christmas decorations in the village.

An average of three inquiries a day about the Stockbridge area are received by the Chamber of Commerce from all over the United States and some foreign countries. This week a school girl in Brazil wrote asking for information. Several thousand brochures were printed by the organization two years ago.

Mobile Home Controversy

Zoning Ordinance Passes in Chilton Over Opposition

CHILTON — The section of the city's proposed overall zoning ordinance that designates commercial area for a mobile home park met opposition Tuesday evening from the only person to attend the public hearing.

Gervase Hephner, who last spring sought rezoning for his land on the city's north side for a mobile home park, questioned why only one area—and that commercial—was zoned for such purpose in the new plan.

"No one in his right mind would put a mobile home park in a commercial area, to look at industry out the windows," said Hephner, who is the state representative from Calumet County.

Waiting for Decision
He complained that he had been waiting nearly a year for a decision on his own petition for rezoning.

City Atty. William Engler explained that specific changes were made in the new proposed ordinance, many of which carry conditional uses for property already established.

Although the proposed ordinance provides for a mobile home park in a commercial area, he said, where it goes would depend on who developed such a park.

The City Council, after further discussion, approved the zoning ordinance as proposed with plans for it to be passed at the January meeting.

Hephner said he felt Chilton "was missing the boat. I'm concerned for people looking for homes to rent or buy—people that wish to settle here." He pointed out that New Holstein, Hilbert and Brillion all have approved mobile home courts.

Snowmobile Ordinance
A snowmobile ordinance also was passed by the City Council, and will be enforced by the local police.

Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, who reside near the fairgrounds, asked the city to do something about keeping snowmobilers off their private property. The council voted to have a snow fence erected at the edge of the Williams' property.

Controversy over whether the city is obligated to plow a driveway once designated a street also took much of the aldermen's time. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin J. Hoffmann, who live

Pollution Warning System Urged

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Establishment of a state environmental quality monitoring system was advocated at Gov. Elect Patrick J. Lucey's budget hearing here Tuesday.

The suggestion was made by Sol Burstein, Milwaukee, senior vice president of the Wisconsin Power & Light Co. He stressed that it is essential to develop personnel and instrumentations to provide for standards and enforcement in the growing area of environmental protection.

"My own company has spent $20 million on environmental protection, and we really don't know what actually has been accomplished in terms of what the problems really are," Burstein said.

Scheduled through Wednesday afternoon, the hearing at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay Shorewood campus is concerned entirely with environmental problems, particularly those that the state will face in the next four years that Lucey is governor.

Lucey opened the hearing by reviewing general environmental concerns.

Problems Complex
"As we discuss these vital concerns, let us remember that the problems of pollution are very complex. There is no single problem cause and no single problem solution. Pollution is a result of a system of independent, yet inter-related variables," the governor-elect declared.

He emphasized that population distribution is an important factor in environmental protection.

"The environment is capable of absorbing and assimilating certain amounts of wastes. Problems occur when the capacity of the environment for waste assimilation is exceeded," Lucey added.

Lucey continued that technology also affects pollution levels. "In the past," he said, "we have been too eager to accept the gift of technological advances without asking what we will have to take on to the product cost in the way of environmental tax. We are now questioning whether that tax might be accepted."

Landfill Takeover Bids Are Rejected

New London to Keep Its Own Operation

NEW LONDON — The city's sanitary landfill site will remain city operated as a result of the rejection of two bids presented to take over the operation of the site.

One bid was for $58,500 and the other for $54,500 both from local contractors. The estimated cost of operation is about $40,000, so the city will continue to maintain the site.

The Department of Natural Resources has set a March 1, 1971 deadline for compliance with its requirement for flood plain zoning within the city limits.

The city was informed that it must comply by February 1, 1971, or face a fine of $5,000 per day, and the state would enact the necessary legislation.

Mayor S. W. Krostue pointed out that the city is working with the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission on such an ordinance which should be ready in January.

Krostue was again appointed the city's agent to enter into an agreement for any aid coming from HUD on the city's sanitary sewer projects.

Standard Oil had the low bid for gasoline for the city — 12.5 cents per gallon for regular gas — and the New London Co-Op was awarded the contract for No. 1 fuel oil at 13.97 cents a gallon and No. 2 at 13.28 cents per gallon.

The city purchased a 7 h.p. snow blower for use on sidewalks and bridges. The machine will cost $278, complete with chains.

The expenditures approved include $67 for a stand for the city clerk's copy machine, and $525 for a portable vacuum pump for the swimming pool.

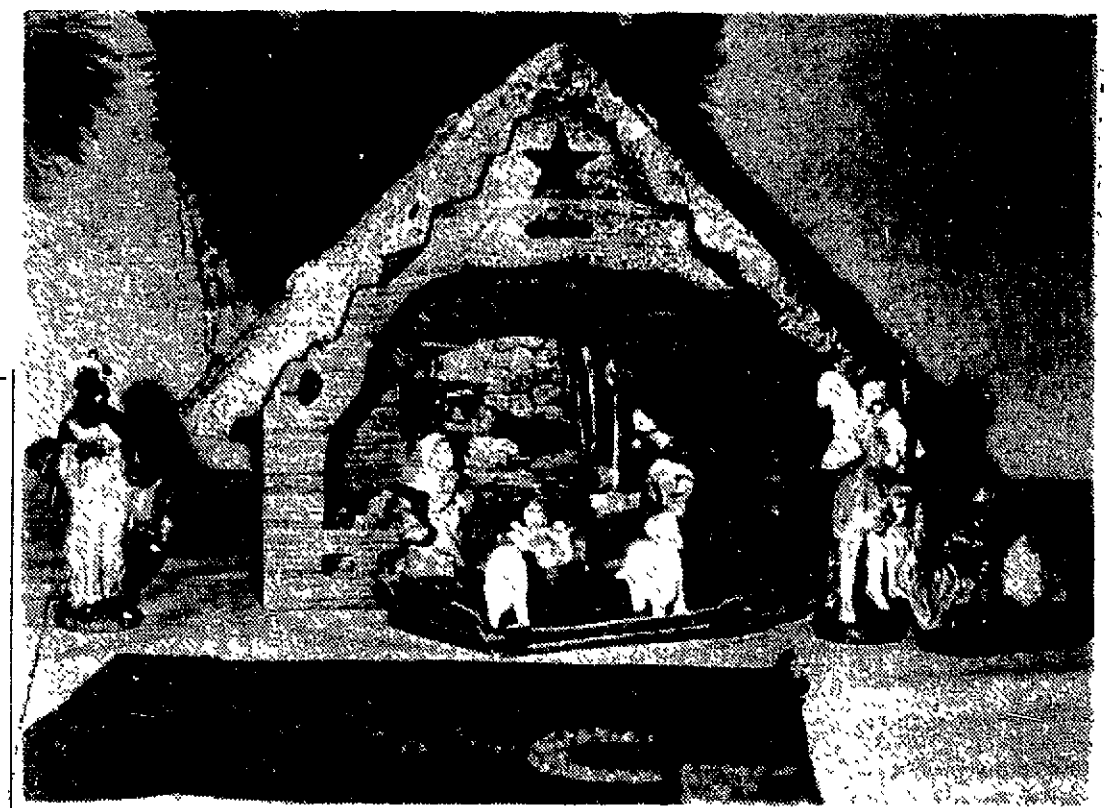

Engineers Paid
An ordinance revising the city's role in the construction field was approved. It will keep the city out of construction of sidewalks and sanitary sewers, with the exception of specific projects approved by the council.

Donahue and Associates, consulting engineers, were paid for the engineering on the North Side Intercept Sewer project. Their portion of the project is complete. The building in Pfeiffer Park was accepted by the city.

Director of Public Works Robert Martin reported that the storm sewer separation project is 29.3 per cent complete. The contractor is expected to complete the Werner-Allen Road portion of the project by the end of this week, and then stop for the winter.

Alderman Clarence Bauernfeind surprised the council when he donated all wages, coming to him as acting co-ordinator of public works, back to the city. Bauernfeind stated that the wages would cause him tax problems and since he couldn't donate a third of them he would donate them all.

The council will meet again at 8 p.m. Dec. 22, when they hope to be able to let the bids on the city's new safety building.

New London Schools

Pupils Above National Level

NEW LONDON — An evaluation of three years of testing, through the Iowa Test method, indicates that pupils in the school district here are well above the national average in the various fields of elementary education.

In the field of reading, considered one of the weakest points nationally, every school in the district was above the national mean of 50 per cent, with 56 per cent being the lowest and 83 per cent the highest composite class percentile.

Several classes achieved the 91 percentile rating on the individual class basis in grades three through six.

Vocabulary Field
In the vocabulary field the range was from 51 to 81 per cent, again higher than the 50 per cent mean. The highest level was 90 per cent for one school.

Growth Example
The composite average for all schools was 63.5 per cent in 1968, 67 per cent in 1969, and 73 per cent in 1970, with a total of 728 children tested in 1970.

An example of the learning growth was indicated by McKinley School pupils. The last year there were classes held in the McKinley building was in 1968, when two classes recorded 35 per cent ratings and one 51 per cent, with the national mean at 50 per cent.

In 1969 the pupils were moved to Lincoln and Parkview schools. Lincoln had recorded a composite of 68 per cent in 1968, and for 1970, with the transferred students figured in, they achieved a 70.2 per cent composite.

Parkview recorded a 65 per cent composite score in 1969, its first year of operation, and a 70.2 per cent composite in 1970. The majority of the pupils from McKinley were moved to Parkview school.

Supt. H. James Ramsdell noted that these growth patterns were an indication of what a different environment can do for the learning ability of the pupils.

He noted that Lincoln and Parkview had the same pupils that McKinley had but were achieving different and improved results. Ramsdell indicated that he was very satisfied with the results of the tests and with the teaching program being used for the elementary pupils.

Stop Crime First, Attorney Insists

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A Milwaukee attorney has proposed that until crime on the streets can be halted the courts should selectively enforce laws, concentrating on criminal sanctions against those who hurt others.

Attorney James Shellow spoke this week at Gov. Elect Patrick J. Lucey's budget hearing on a more responsive state and local government system.

Since it is economically unfeasible to hire the number of police needed to clean up all crime and make the streets safe, Shellow said, the officials who are on the job should set a priority on enforcing the truly criminal laws. After the streets are safe, police and courts can consider enforcing moral codes and the Ten Commandments if they wish, Shellow said.

Public drunkenness, issuing worthless checks, illegal sexual behavior and fraud are out of the criminal realm, Shellow said, and should take a lower priority in enforcement. There is no agreement on what morality is, he said, and the courts and police would be better used in those areas of criminal law where there is agreement and need for enforcement.

Citing other problems in the judicial system, Shellow said that the county and circuit court judges are "hopelessly underpaid." The salary for Milwaukee County judges is $27,000 to $28,000 per year and other county judges are paid about $16,000 or $18,000 a year. The associate justices of the state Supreme Court receive only $29,000.

The amounts of remuneration, Shellow said, are not adequate to attract the right people to judgeships.

Doctor Wrong in Not Seeing Minor Patient

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 17-year-old girl and I think I have a very serious problem.

Having all the symptoms, I am to treat minors for V.D. without what information you have on this? — P.A.F.

I tried calling our family doctor back to him and ask him to see him without my mother being there. He'll find that I'm right about your state having this law. (I have checked it to be sure.)
You have the classical symptoms of gonorrhea, and the sooner you are treated, the better for you. Until you are cured, I trust you will take pains not to pass the disease along to anyone else. (Chances are, the boy you got it from knew he had it, so I don't think much of him.)
No, you don't have to go to a hospital.
There's no fixed time as to how soon the disease will begin causing permanent damage if not treated. It is, after all, an infection, and can cause such things as scarring of the Fallopian tubes to the extent of making it impossible to have children later in life.
If your family doctor still won't treat you without having your mother along, then go to another doctor.
Since some strains of the gonorrhea germ now are known to be developing resistance to penicillin, it's wise to go back for a re-check later, in case added treatment with another antibiotic is necessary to finish the job.

You did the right thing in going to your doctor; he was in error, because your state is one of quite a number which now have laws permitting physicians to treat minors for V.D. without parental consent. Could you give me

Our modern "sex freedom" isn't as enlightened as some people seem to think — and an alarming increase in venereal disease is one of the consequences.
I will be 18 in six months. Is long to go to a doctor on my own? Can it be cured with penicillin or pills or something, or do I have to go to a hospital? — S.C.

Faulkner Not Worth His Salt As Postmaster in Mississippi

NEW YORK (AP) — William Faulkner won two Pulitzer prizes and the Nobel Prize for literature, but to the U.S. Post Office, he was a malingering and ne'er do well in the days when he was postmaster at University, Miss.

The Post Office accused him in a 46-year-old letter of reading and playing golf or cards during office hours and throwing mail in the garbage can during office hours.

It also said he was writing a book on government time. He was fired. The letter from Mark Webster, postal inspector at Corinth, Miss., and dated Sept. 2, 1924, was published in the current issue of the New Yorker magazine, which said it had never been printed before.

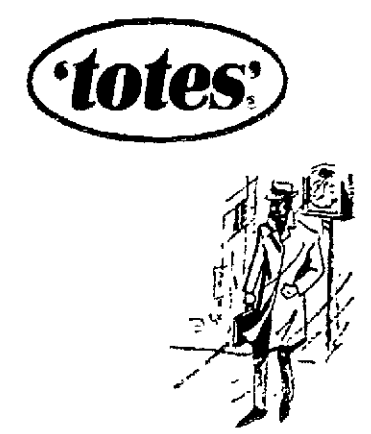

Fired at Postmaster
Faulkner became postmaster at the station serving the University of Mississippi when he was 24 and was fired three years later.

The letter said, "You have thrown mail . . . in the garbage can by the side entrance . . . this has become such a common occurrence that some patrons have gone to the garbage can to get their magazines, should they not be in their boxes . . . you do not give the office proper attention, opening and closing same at your convenience; that you can be found playing golf during office hours."

Constant Reader
It further said Faulkner permitted "card playing in the office" and said, "You are a habitual reader of books and magazines and seem reluctant to cease reading long enough to wait on patrons; that you have a book being printed at the present time, the greater part of which was written while on duty at the post office."

Faulkner's first famous novel, "The Sound and the Fury," was published in 1929, five years after he got the letter.

Fox Valley Campus to Offer Special Course

A special course, "The Individual and His Culture," will be offered during January at the Fox Valley Campus of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. It will concentrate on the relationship between man, society and the environment.

Twelve movies will be shown, and they will serve as discussion topics by experts in several disciplines.

The course is open to the public; held during the day, and a fee charge will be $10.

Kimberly Youths Charged With Safe Burglary

Two Kimberly youths have been charged with burglary in connection with a Dec. 7 break-in in the village where a safe reportedly was removed from the Village Inn. 440 E. Kimberly Ave., and smashed open later near the Fox River.

Kimberly police, who said the safe reportedly contained an estimated $466, discovered the unit the day following the burglary near the Fox River in the village. It had been opened. A 16-year-old boy, who supposedly participated in the burglary, will answer to allegations later in Juvenile Court.

Legislators Not So Willing To Pay for Security Requests

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — After approving security measures on an almost panic basis after a series of campus disruption of the state legislature last year, legislators took a closer look at the proposals while the Board on Government Operations (BOGO) Tuesday turned down one request, trimmed another substantially, and grudgingly approved a third. The board, that serves as the emergency funding arm of the legislature, denied a request of the state department of public instruction for $11,000 to hire a full-time security staff person; cut a request for $1.1 million for personnel, lighting and protective devices for the Wisconsin State University system to $120,000 for light bills; and approved a request of the department of administration for $96,800 to complete a security program recommended by the federal secret service.

Led by State Reps. John Shabaz of New Berlin and William Draheim of Neenah, the board indicated that it would consider further security measures, but would prefer that a state plan for protection be developed, rather than a piecemeal plan devised as each agency and institution gets worried.

Requests Snowballing
 Draheim said the requests for emergency security measures have been snowballing.

The Department of Public Instruction, located in a rented dormitory on Langdon Street, near the University of Wisconsin considers itself vulnerable to take-overs by supporters of welfare mothers, the board was told.

Archie Buchmiller, deputy superintendent of public instruction told BOGO that the department was concerned that another take-over like one at the department last month by several welfare mothers and a number of students supporting their demands for clothing funds could occur again. "Our best information," he said, "is that it is likely to reoccur. We don't believe it's over yet."

Private Agency Sought
 The department sought permission to hire a private security agency to provide a guard who could restrain persons from taking over the building. Gov.

Warren P. Knowles office had recommended the request be denied because there is no sufficient potential for personal injury or property damage from such demonstrations.

The state universities request was similar to that made earlier by the University of Wisconsin for better security measures on the campuses.

The governor's office had recommended that $158,500 of the $1.1 million request be approved for maintaining lights inside buildings at night. The board, however, cut the recommendation further to the $120,000 figures that represented the system's light bill for security.

Outside Lighting
 The governor also recommended that the state universities turn to the state Building Commission for money to provide for installation of outside lighting and other security construction, rather than to BOGO. The governor's comments included the vague directive that "a careful program of recording campus incidents should be initiated to establish clearly whether additional security personnel are needed."

Eugene Mc Phee, director of the State University system responded to the recommended study by cataloguing recent incidents on the state campuses. He said there had been three fires started by arsonists on the River Falls campus during the past week, a ROTC building bombing on the Superior campus within the past month, the monumental fire in Old Main on the Whitewater campus last year, and a sitdown strike just begun Tuesday on the Superior campus.

"Apparently people only read the Madison papers," he said, indicating that attention was being focussed only on the UW campus problems and the state capital.

Capitol Police
 The Department of Administration request submitted by secretary Wayne McGown will provide for 13 police officers and other security measures for the capitol and other state buildings.

Mc Gown's request was approved with only Shabaz's opposition. His plea was made more credible at the meeting since a bomb threat was made against the Wilson Street state office building requiring evacuation of all personnel.

In other business, BOGO: — Approved the purchase of 150 replacement patrol cars for the Wisconsin State Patrol at a cost of $133,000, more than the $240,000 budgeted. The increased cost became apparent last month as auto manufacturers discontinued the practice of giving discounts for fleet purchases.

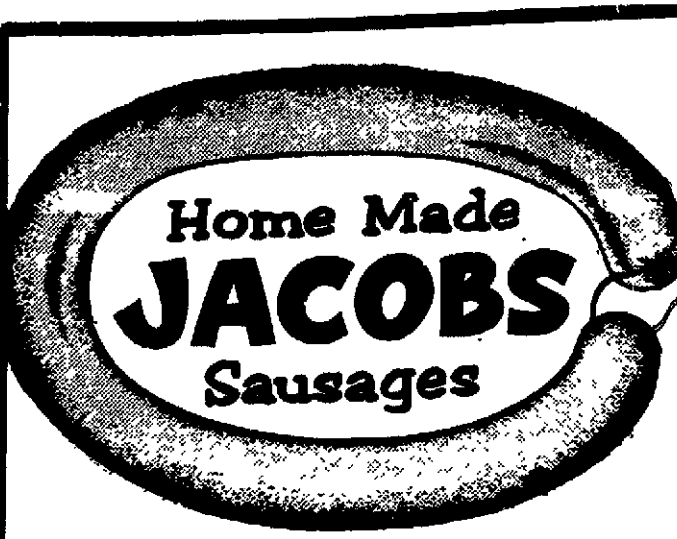

— Approve overtime pay for technicians at 10 WHA radio stations. The approval came on a reconsideration vote after the board denied the request that would have meant the stations would need to cut programming down from 100 to about 80 hours a week.

— Denied several Department of Health and Social Services requests for more social workers and clerical help to meet a federal requirement and to reduce parole workers worker's case loads. It also denied funds for covering increased costs of supplies at state institutions.

— Authorized the employment of five security officers for the state prison at Waupun. Their salaries will be paid out of funds now given existing employees in overtime pay, who do the same jobs.

— Denied a request of the Department of Natural Resources to purchase $50,000 worth of equipment to contain oil spills on state waterways and denied a reduced request for $10,000 for the same purpose.

— Approved a request for $10,650 to use in a program to recruit medical personnel returning from the armed forces for service in rural areas as health professionals.

Interest Denied By Kennedy

And
CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he has suggested—unsuccessfully—that his name be dropped from the public opinion polls listing 1972 Democratic presidential prospects, because he isn't interested.

But there is evidence the 38-year-old Massachusetts senator is not at all unhappy that his name is still there—and doing quite well.

For Kennedy clearly has no intention of overruling his renunciation of national ambitions in 1972.

The reasoning, according to sources familiar with Kennedy's thinking, is this: if he puts himself too far out of the running, the party may pay less attention to what he says about national issues in the next two years.

And he has said in an interview he hopes to help shape the Democratic issues of 1972.

Kennedy says his position is unchanged: he is committed to serve the full six years of the Senate term he won Nov. 3.

Nothing Certain

But nothing in politics is certain, and no disclaimer of candidacy is irrevocable.

The early political planning of Democrats seeking the nomination leaves room for Kennedy as a possible rival one day.

That day almost certainly could not come until the 1972 convention is in session.

In the interim, the Kennedy game plan seems to involve doing many of the things candidates do, while staying out of the presidential primaries and sticking to his stance as a non-candidate.

The last of the Kennedy brothers plummeted from his early front runner position to that of noncandidate July 18, 1968, when his car went off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island, killing Mary Jo Kopechne.

In the aftermath, Kennedy said he was considering resigning his Senate seat, then announced he would stay, seek reelection, and serve the full term.

With Kennedy's early drop-out, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine quickly soared into the nomination lead. Kennedy now says the Muskie margin may be insurmountable.

Closest Rival

But Muskie's closest rival in the public opinion polls remains Kennedy.

A recent poll shows Muskie the favorite of 33 per cent of the rank and file Democrats, with Kennedy ranked two points behind.

Another survey indicates Muskie has the support of 49 per cent of Democrats, Kennedy 45 per cent. When that poll was broadened to include all voters, Muskie's margin rocketed to 54.

Abundant Electric Energy Thing of Past

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Despite frightening headlines, it now seems likely that we'll get through the winter of '71 without a major fuel crisis.

Barring unpredictable disasters—a siege of freezing weather, a prolonged railroad strike, another blowup in the Middle East—the dreaded fuel shortage has apparently been averted for now.

But the threat of a long-term scarcity of energy in the U.S. still remains. For the first time in our history, we face possible shortages not because of a breakdown in facilities but because of actual lack of energy, an entirely different matter.

We have moved from an era of abundant energy into an era in which the emphasis will be on conservation and cautious use of our energy resources.

John G. McLean, chairman of the National Petroleum Council and president of Continental Oil Co., said to me over and over again in a long luncheon interview the other day.

We have left the age of cheap energy and entered a new phase in which prices of all forms of energy will climb steadily to new peaks. And this phase, warned C. Howard Hardesty, Jr., senior vice president of Continental Oil, may last five, ten or even more years.

Behind us is the time when comparatively stable prices of gas, electricity, oil and coal helped hold down our overall living costs. Ahead of us is a time in which soaring costs of these essentials will be adding to upward pressure on our cost of living.

Behind us too is the time of relative government-industry-consumer "peace" in the area of production of energy. Ahead of us is a time of almost constant confrontation between the forces which hold preservation of our environment above all other considerations and those who insist that uninterrupted and rapidly increasing production of energy is imperative in our highly industrialized society.

How did we get into this energy crisis? What is being done and can be done to solve it? What can you do to shave your fuel costs this winter even in the face of zooming prices?

To get the answers, I interviewed McLean and Hardesty. I also studied the analyses and proposals of Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and General George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

On one point industry and government authorities thoroughly agree: Demand has spectacularly outpaced all expectations. For instance, our use of energy recently has been rising about 5 per cent a year—almost double the annual rise in the '50s and early '60s.

At the same time, a complex and long list of factors has converged to curb supplies. To illustrate:

—Production and supplies of coal have been curtailed by wildcat strikes, mine safety laws, shortage of railroad cars.

In addition, McLean says, the Federal Power Commission's surveys seriously underestimated what current demands for coal would be (25 million more tons of coal were needed in '69 than the FPC had predicted.)

—Pollution curbs have sharply increased the demand for such clean fuels as natural gas. But what McLean calls the FPC's "unrealistically low price regulations for natural gas have held down exploration for natural gas and contributed to its scarcity.

The U.S. fuel oil supply has been tightened by oil production cutbacks in Libya, interruptions of an oil pipeline in Syria and a shortage of oil tankers. Simultaneously, the world demand for residual fuel oil, especially low sulfur oil, has skyrocketed.

—Building of nuclear power plants has fallen way behind schedule due to public opposition and, again, bad government forecasting. Hardesty figures that if the nuclear power program had been on schedule the demand for coal this year would have been 15 million tons less than it has been.

It could have become a full-fledged energy crisis, but it hasn't — and the reason it hasn't is NOT the publicized steps ordered by President Nixon and other administration officials. The reason is, bluntly, higher prices. This tale tomorrow.
